JACOB ROGERS DEAD
AT AGE OF 84 YEARS

Was One of Lowell's Foremost
Citizens—Has Been Identified
With Her Business and Industrial Life for Many Years—
Sketch of His Career

Jacob Rogers is dead, and the city of Lowell has sustained a great loss, for on the roll of her prominent and well-beloved citizens the name of Jacob Rogers led all the rest.

In the fullness of comfortable old age that is the reward of a well spent youth, Mr. Rogers passed away at his home, 258 Andover street, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 10 days, after an illness borne with fortitude and resignation. Up to within a short time, Mr. Rogers was still a familiar figure down town for Time laid his hand gently upon him and though having exceeded the prescribed three score and ten by over a decade, he was still able to visit periodically the scenes of his former business activities where his presence was welcomed with reverential respect.

Jacob Rogers was descended from an old and honorable family his ancestors having played a prominent part in the early history of our country. The head of the family in this country settled here as far back as 1670, taking a leading part in colonial affairs. One of his ancestors, John Rogers, was president of Harvard college from 1682 to 1684 while another, Nathaniel Rogers, grandfather of the deceased was a Lawyer and a Judge living between 1716 and 1729.

Mr. Rogers was descended on his mother's side from Rev. Jacob Cram, a Congregational minister, and his maternal grandmother, Mary Poor, was the daughter of General Enoch Poor, of Revolutionary fame. Col. John Rogers, father of the deceased, was born in Newmarket, N. H., July 2, 1782, and died in Exeter, July, 1837, leaving a widow and six children. Col. Rogers was one of the leading citizens of Exeter, and a graduate of Phillips Academy, and for 22 years was cashier of the Old Exeter bank. He served also as colonel of the Fourth Militia regiment and took a leading part in town affairs, serving 14 years continuously as a selectman. Col. Rogers was married three times, his first two wives being daughters of Col. Nathaniel Gilman of Exeter, and the third wife, Martha Poor Cram, daughter of Rev. Jacob Cram. Jacob Rogers was a son by this last marriage.

Jacob Rogers was born in Exeter, July 23, 1829 and received his education in the schools of that town and at Phillips Exeter Academy. Upon leaving his studies he went to sea and spent three years before the mast making long voyages to India and China in the historic old Boston clippers in days when ocean travel had not attained its present state of perfection, and his strenuous experiences as a sailor prepared him physically for the long and busy career that was to follow.

Coming to Lowell at the age of 20 years, Mr. Rogers engaged in the hardware business with his brother, John F. Rogers, on the site now occupied by the Thompson hardware company. He continued actively engaged in the hardware business until 1857 when he became president of the Railroad National bank which position he held until 1860 when pressure of other business caused him to retire. He became treasurer of the Lowell Gaslight company in 1870 and continued as such until quite recently.

He was treasurer of the Stony Brook railroad and was a trustee of the Dr. J. A. Ayer estate and the close friend and confidant of Frederick Ayer. He was also a director of the Railroad bank, the Hide and Leather bank of Boston, the J. C. Ayer Co., the Mechanics Savings bank, the Tremont and Suffolk companies, the Massachusetts Cotton mills, the Traders and Mechanics insurance company, the old Kitson Machine company, of which he was also president, and others; few men having been so closely connected with the great financial interests of the city.

He was a noted philanthropist and a man of wide charity, though shunning notoriety in this respect, his acts of charity were known only to the beneficiaries. He was president of the Lowell General hospital and a firm friend of that institution, an official voted member and strong supporter of the Kirk Street Congregational church and a man of liberality of view on matters of religion.

In 1866 he married Mary Howard, former daughter of James G. Currier, former treasurer of the Lowell Institution for Savings, of Lowell, who with their children survives him. The children are Mary Currier, now Mrs. Louis Emerson Dunbar; Alice Poor, now Mrs. Frederick Arthur Fletcher, and Hon. John Jacob Rogers, the present congressman from the 4th Massachusetts district.

The old saying "his word was his bond" applied to Jacob Rogers in all that the expression implies. He was the sort of business honor, open and above board in all his dealings, while his private life was exemplary, a loving husband and devoted father. From the quietest moment in the manual world to the highest servant in his employ, he was uniformly admired, respected and loved, and as he fares forth from the scenes in which he labored so long, so faithfully and so well, the prayerful well-wishes of an entire community accompany him.

With Danger of Clash Between United States and Huerta Removed Interest in Mexican Situation Turned to Mediation Proceedings—No War Indemnity From Mexico

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 9.—Mexico will not be asked by the United States to pay war indemnity. The Huerta government has learned through the American delegates that the Wilson administration will be content to have set up in Mexico a stable government to succeed Huerta rule.

MEDIATORS TO MAKE PUBLIC REPORTS FROM REBELS

WASHINGTON, June 9.—With danger of a clash between the United States and Huerta averted at Tampico interest in the Mexican situation was turned abruptly to the mediation conference today after the receipt of reports that the South American envoys personally were inclined to consider at an end their efforts to bring Carranza into the proceedings unless he agreed to an armistice. The mediators stated they would make public all the correspondence that has passed between them and the constitutionalist.

Constitutionalist agents here expected to hear from Carranza today and belief was expressed that the events of the past 48 hours would determine the scope of mediation.

Meanwhile the federal and rebel missions continued their meetings. Both sides had presented to the mediators a plan for Mexico pacification. It was said to be practically the same in principle, contemplating establishment of a new provisional government which would provide for an early general election for a permanent administration.

Speculation continued as to whether the steamer Antilla, which cleared from New York carrying arms for Carranza would deliver them. Official statements of the disposition of the case were not forthcoming. An official of the Ward line, which owns the Antilla, was quoted as saying that the steamer was due to arrive at Tampico Wednesday "unless the United States government sends orders to her captain not to go into that port."

Before the Antilla nears Tampico it is believed the administration's attitude will be revealed in a reply to the note of the federal delegates. They inquired whether the American government would object to action by Huerta's gunboats to balk the landing of the ammunition. The note was addressed to the mediators and reached the state department here from the American mission. The Huerta delegates were said to be disposed to continue mediation proceedings even if the ammunition got ashore.

The defendant said that since the assault occurred he had been to New York city and back "beating" his way both ways. He claimed that he was under the influence of liquor at the time and did not realize what he was doing. However, the court decided that intoxication could not cover up the crime and he was sent to the Lowell jail for two months.

One second offender was ordered to pay a fine of $6 and another was sentenced to the state farm.

TEST RED FLAG LAW

CASE OF ALLEGED VIOLATION OF
RECENT STATUTE IN FITCHBURG
WILL GO TO SUPREME COURT

WORCESTER, June 9.—A brief and formal trial of John H. Karvonen of Fitchburg, charged with carrying a forbidden flag, was held in the superior criminal court yesterday. Dist. Atty. Stiles read to the jury an agreed statement of facts drawn by himself and Atty. T. J. McCarthy of Fitchburg, counsel for the defendant. It was stated that the case is to go to supreme court to test the constitutionality of the statute of Nov. 3, 1913, which forbids the carrying of a red or a black flag in any procession in the state under certain conditions.

The statement of facts was to the effect that the flag in question has been the emblem of a Finnish Socialist organization in Fitchburg for some years.

Judge Dubuque charged the jury that, in response to requests for instructions made by the defense, he would instruct them that they have a right to find that the flag in question is a red flag within the meaning of the statute. The jury found the defendant guilty and Judge Dubuque imposed a fine of $20, but suspended it on the defendant's motion to enable the matter to go to the supreme court.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY TRUST
PLANNED FOR BAY STATE

Provisions of Plan for Merger of Boston Elevated, Bay State St. Ry., West End St. Ry. and Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Road Into Corporation Made Public

BOSTON, June 9.—Provisions of a plan for a merger of the Boston Elevated railway, the Bay State Street railway, and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road into a corporation to be known as the Commonwealth Electric Railroad company, were made public today. It was announced that a bill embodying this proposition would be submitted to the legislative committee on railroads and metropolitan affairs today by James F. Jackson, former railroad commissioner, acting as counsel for the Bay State Street railway. A similar plan recently was advocated by President Patrick F. Sullivan of the Bay State at a hearing before a legislative committee as a solution for traffic problems in the cities and towns served by it a sum equal to the amount of such excess.

The metropolitan district is defined as the bill as a territory within a radius of approximately ten miles from the state house.

To provide for the establishment of a financial unit and an operating unit within this district and to adjust the revenue to a scientific basis are stated to be the chief purpose of the plan.

The Boston Elevated operates all the surface, underground and elevated lines within the city of Boston and a large part of the surface lines in the suburbs. The West End is under lease to the Elevated. The Bay State lines extend from Newport, R. I., through Lowell and other places to Nashua, N. H., and the company's cars enter Boston from the north and the south through a traffic agreement for joint use of the lines of the Elevated. The Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn is a narrow-gauge steam railroad operating in East Boston, Winthrop, Revere and Lynn and maintaining a line of ferry boats from East Boston to the city proper.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO.

Give Color to Pale Cheeks

Pollid lips and bloodless ears, create ex-president of the Burke Temperance Institute and at present a gray-coated bachelor, was married to Miss Sophie, the wife, who frowned before, To smile at last; And still have sweet.

In all his noon of fame, As when first he sung to woman's ear His soul-felt name, And at every close she blushed to hear The one loved name!

New hope may bloom, And days may come, Of instant victory, But there's nothing half so sweet as life, As love's young dream."

Quarter of a century ago Cupid was busy in Lowell as he is today, and June, it appears from the column of the old Sun, was the favorite month of brides, even as now. Times and manners may change, but the love story of today is as old as the traditions of life. In looking over the Sun of 25 years ago I find accounts of the weddings of many well known men and women. Since those days many girls in some cases, apparently, circles have been broken by the inevitable intrusion of mothers with imperious step the daughters of the upper and the palaces of the rich, leaving earth one angel less and giving to heaven one angel more, while in others the bride and groom of quarter of a century ago still preside over the home their happiness having mellowed with the increasing years. A philosopher once said, "Memory can gleam, but can never renew. It brings us joys, faint as is the perfume of the flowers, faded and dried of the summer that is gone." But who would not indulge in those faint joys, and hence I propose to reprint some of the marriage notices of quarter of a century ago, content that those mentioned will concur in the sentiment so beautifully expressed by James Whitcomb Riley.

"Tis a fragrant retrospect, for the loving thoughts that start into being like perfumes from the blossoms of the heart.

And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine.

When my trains fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine."

With the above familiar names as the heading, the old sun says:

"Mr. Charles W. Holmes, of the Bristol firm of Mark Holmes, Jr., & Son, wood-turners, and Miss Catherine C. Martin were married Wednesday afternoon (June 19) by Rev. Richard S. Purke of St. Patrick's. Mr. Peter A. Kelly was best man and Miss Mary A. Coulson of Lawrence was bride-maid. The ceremony was private, none but the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes will occupy a new residence 25 Royal street early in July. The bride was employed in the Sun office up to a few weeks ago."

Charlie is still turning wood in monies at the old stand while Mrs. Holmes is one of the leading workers in behalf of St. Columba's parish. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes have a beautiful home in Varnum avenue and have two charming and talented daughters.

WOODWORTH—MURKLAND

Equally familiar are the names given with the following account of the wedding:

"A fashionable wedding occurred Wednesday afternoon (June 19) at the residence of Mr. James Murkland, 10 High street, the contracting parties being Mary Belle Murkland and Mr. Artemes B. Woodworth, Jr., of the firm of A. L. Brooks & Co. Rev. Charles S. Murkland of Manchester, N. H., a cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Henry T. Foss. Rev. Mr. Woodworth was best man. A. L. Murkland, Mr. Joe V. Melas, George L. H. Noyes of Cambridge and John E. Tracy, a friend well known to the usher, officiated in the ceremony. The wedding march and several other selections were played during the reception. Dance and dinner followed an elaborate collation and Stephen & Sons' floral decorations. Following the honeymoon the happy couple will be at home at 20 Belmont street, after July 1st."

Sudden Death of a War Veteran

Looking over the obituary column of the old Sun I find the following: "John H. Saunders, a veteran of the war, dropped dead on the door of the J. C. Avery establishment on Thursday morning. Heart disease caused his death. Mr. Saunders was employed at the Avery establishment and had not complained of illness. He was 46 years of age and leaves a family at 23 West street. He was a member of post 185 and served in the Sixth regiment."

Mr. Saunders and the incident of his death will be readily recalled by the members of the famous Quarter of a Century.

McQUARRIE—MAHER

In its matrimonial column the old Sun also has the following:

"Rev. Father Burke, Wednesday afternoon (June 19) united in marriage Mr. Daniel McQuarrie and Miss Minnie E. Maher, the ceremony being performed at St. Patrick's parochial residence. Mr. John W. Fox was best man and Miss Maggie Davey, bride-maid. A reception and wedding supper were held at the residence of Lester Carter Thomas J. Green, 4 M. L. Washington street. Page and Nummer catered. Mr. and Mrs. McQuarrie left Lowell on a late train and will make an extensive tour."

GIBSON—BURNAP

Likewise the following:

"At the Congregational church in Jersey City, Wednesday evening (June 19), James Edward Gibson, teller of the Merchants' National bank of this city, was married to Miss Mira Burns of Jersey City. Fred N. Wier, Esq., and C. W. Whidden of this city were among the ushers at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will reside on Myrtle street within a few weeks."

The old sun gives the following:

"At the Congregational church in Jersey City, Wednesday evening (June 19), Jones Edward Gibson, teller of the Merchants' National bank of this city, was married to Miss Mira Burns of Jersey City. Fred N. Wier, Esq., and C. W. Whidden of this city were among the ushers at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will reside on Myrtle street within a few weeks."

LET THE MILITANTS DIE

British Leaders Say Women Who Go on Hunger Strike Should be Allowed to Die

LONDON, June 9.—"Let them die" is Matthew's, Brixton, said: "If the women refuse food they should be allowed to die."

Rev. Richard Free, vicar of St. Clement's Fulham, replied: "I think the suggestion very good. I have advocated it for many months."

It was reported yesterday that the government had decided to take a step in this direction by introducing legislation to indemnify prison authorities against the consequences of allowing suffragettes to starve themselves to death while in prison.

The Evening Standard yesterday interviewed a number of prominent people, including clergymen, on the subject and all of the latter who are quoted by the newspaper, express themselves in favor of the proposal.

Fr. Bernard Vaughan, brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, replied: "There would be nothing ethically wrong in letting them die. Let them start at once and make up for lost time!"

Rev. Arthur Waldron, vicar of St.

The American embassy was made a target for the militants yesterday, a woman giving the name of Mrs. H. Wimberhouse, who said she was an American making noisy demands for an interview with Ambassador Page.

She said she was one of a delegation of suffragettes that was broken up while on the way to present a petition to King George at Buckingham Palace on May 23. She refused to tell what she wanted, except to the ambassador himself, and said she would continue示威 until the ambassador comes to see her.

Another demonstration by a militant suffragette in the presence of King George and Queen Mary was carried out at the international horse show at Olympia yesterday afternoon.

The militantes had boldly taken their seats when a young woman rose in the stalls opposite and in a shrill voice screamed denunciations of the terrible treatment of suffragette prisoners.

The police swooped upon her immediately, but the woman fought wildly and her election from the building was effected only after a fierce struggle.

At Oxford some miles to the east of London, the speakers were pelted with stones and other missiles and an unsuccessful attempt was made by the crowd under the leadership of a woman to upset the wagon from which the suffragettes were speaking.

The orators escaped into the registry office of the local branch of the militant society, and the crowd afterward held a meeting in the church of St. Paul, where Miss Mary Blomfield stayed prior to creating a scene at the court at Buckingham palace.

Her indignation upon her immediate capture, but the woman fought wildly and her election from the building was effected only after a fierce struggle.

A Trip to California Has Been Placed Within Your Reach

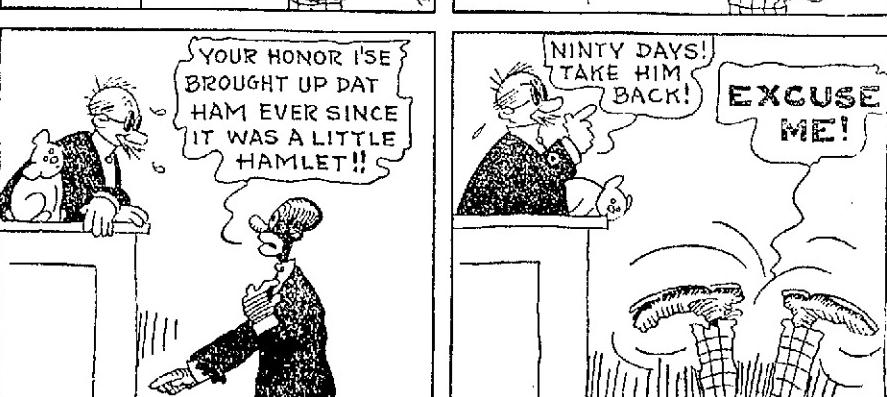

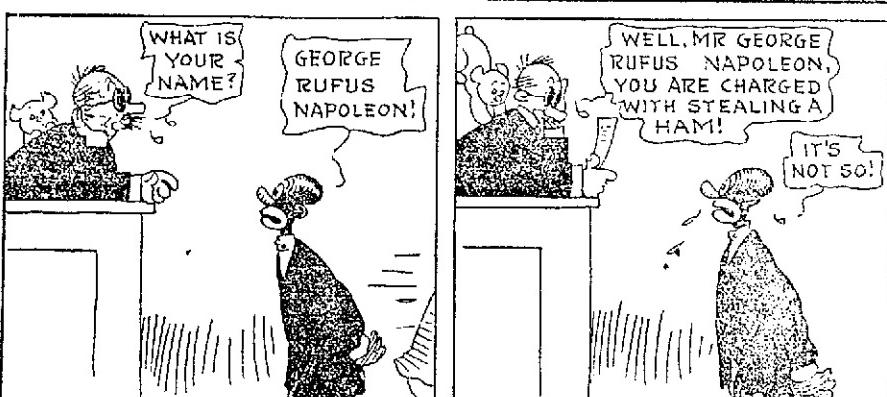

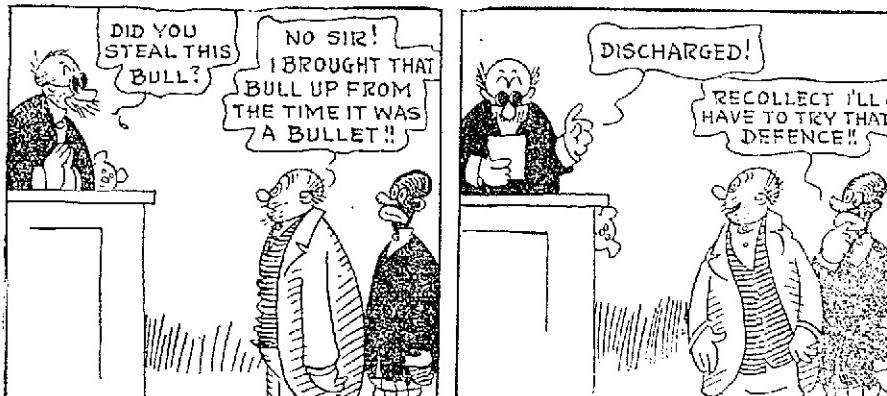

A small cottage in the rear of 246 Jewett street was gutted by fire shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday. It started in the rear of the house and was first discovered by a neighbor who rang in an alarm from box 616, corner of Bridge and Thirteenth streets. When the firemen arrived on the scene in a very few minutes after the alarm was sounded the fire was burning briskly and smoke was pouring from all parts of the house. The furniture was badly damaged by smoke and water.

The dwelling is owned by T. W. Johnson and occupied by the family of William Salmon, the runner.

EXCUSE ME

In Colorado Coal Fields—Expect President Wilson to Accept Amendments on Tolls

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Wilson is expected to accept the Senate amendments to the Panama tolls exemption repeal specifying that the United States does not waive its right to discriminate in favor of its own shipping but he does not feel that the Senate gives its assent to the repeal in "ungrudging measure" by attaching amendments.

Mr. Wilson takes the position that as legislation in no way waives treaty rights he may accept the measure, although he desired passage of the repeal without limitation.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty marriage was solemnized yesterday at St. Jospeh's rectory, when Mr. J. Albert Hamel, formerly employed in The Sun's stereotype department, and now at the Haverhill Gazette, and Miss Alberta Gregoire were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 10 a.m. by Rev. Augustin Graton, O. M. I. The witnesses were John T. Vincent and Azarie Hamel. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Azarie Hamel, 156 Gershom avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. Present at the wedding from out-of-town were Azarie Hamel, Jr., of Fort Arthur, Ont., Azarie Gregoire of Manchester, and Romeo Salati of Nashua. Mr. and Mrs. Hamel, who were the recipients of many costly gifts, left on the 10:15 o'clock train for Canada, where for the next few weeks they will visit relatives at Sherbrooke, Weston, Danville and Montreal. Upon their return in two weeks they will make their home in Haverhill.

In answer to questions concerning the Colombian treaty, the president today said Secretary Bryan still has that and the Nicaraguan treaty under consideration and no definite decision has been made as to when they will be submitted to the senate.

Troops will not be withdrawn from the Colorado coal fields immediately. The White House has reason to believe that a conference will soon come about between the warring forces which doubtless will end in a settlement of differences and make possible the withdrawal of federal troops without danger of further conflict.

The meeting of the planning board, which was scheduled to be held at 2:30 yesterday afternoon at city hall, did not materialize although Messrs. John H. Murphy and J. Walter Bowers, two prominent members of the board, arrived on schedule time, and remained there until nearly 3:30 o'clock.

Major Murphy, who is chairman of the board, was unable to be present, although it was at his request that the meeting was called, for he attended a musical at the Notre Dame Academy.

Jesse D. Creek, secretary of the board, led his hands full at the convention of the Buffalo, while Arthur Genest, James E. Donnelly and Charles C. Anderson, the other members of the board could not be located. Messrs. Murphy and Bowers had several plans to submit but as they could not muster a majority they held them in reserve.

Alleged that Mr. Bowers has plans for new parks, improved street work and better municipal economy.

Mr. Murphy allowed that a few initial attempts to meet will place the planning board among the things that might have been.

FAILED TO MEET AS ARRANGED— THERE WAS NOT A QUORUM AND SESSION WAS POSTPONED

The market was stagnant in the early afternoon and prices barely moved. London operations were small.

The copper producers statement shows an increase of 14,000,000 pounds in supplies together with statements that prices for the metal were ruling at around 14 cents were without adverse effect on the copper shares.

The market closed easy. Outside news had little influence on values although there were important developments that the street had long been awaiting.

The supreme court decision favoring the railroads and the bullish crop situation failed to stir the market. Realizing and short selling forced back prices all around toward the end.

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—Mrs. JOSEPH ASELIN, 628 Monroe St., N.E., Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-

No other medicine for women's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pink-

COURTING DANGER

It is a well known fact that sports in which there is an element of danger have a peculiar fascination for the minds of the young. The season is on us when this truth will be proved only too well for from now on news of rivers, ponds and beaches will not be complete without the accounts of drownings and other deaths due to the daring of those who ignore danger. Day after day hundreds in this state alone go out in frail canoes and untrustworthy boats, and despite warnings of press and public the death toll piles up alarmingly. Our own city has had some sad fatalities already and the papers of yesterday related similar occurrences in Boston, Providence, New Haven and other places.

Another example of this love of boys and young men for dangerous sports comes from Lynn, where on Saturday a little lad playing the game of "Follow the Leader" climbed a telegraph pole and came in contact with a live wire with dire results. Pole climbing and tree climbing is common in all cities, and the wonder is that the fatalities are not far more numerous. Then again in a short walk one will see children who walk on bridge parapets, those who swim in the dangerous canals and the legion of those who play in the public streets to the despair of automobilists. No list would be complete without the little fellows who steal a ride on the electric cars, on autos and on all other vehicles. Children must have their sports apparently even though this sport endangers their life. Generally the ardent adventurer who runs risks survives to boast of hisfeat to his companions but quite frequently there is a failure followed by a grief-shaded home and a long rest in the cemetery.

How many children will be permitted to play and yet play safely? Evidently all danger cannot be eliminated, and perhaps it would not be well to curb the adventurous spirit that is linked with some of the best qualities of the developing mind. Yet it is out of the question that young people should be permitted to throw their lives away without an effort being made to save them from their folly and inexperience. There is a distinct responsibility upon the municipality to provide all sections with playgrounds where youth may revel at will under the proper supervision, and no playground system is complete without facilities for summer bathing. No one can hope to prevent death from foolishness entirely, but a great deal can be done and will eventually be done when the public becomes aware of the awful list of tragedies due to municipal negligence annually.

A special word of warning should be spoken to young men who go to summer camps and vacation resorts for at such times the spirit of bravado leads many a promising career to its finish. Words are vain to point the dangers for the strongest argument of all is the resultant funeral, and yet hundreds who should be warned by such an event will continue in their dangerous practices. There are scores of ways to get real enjoyment and pleasure out of life in the summer season with out running a risk of losing one's life, and parents, guardians and friends of daring young men and boys should strive to impress on them at the beginning of the season the absolute folly of the indifference or bravado that would lead them into personal danger.

ABUSE OF PENSIONS

One of the most frequent warnings issued at the present time by all sincere and disinterested students of public affairs is that which has to do with the growing abuse of pensions, and judging by the number of requests made by individuals and groups of public officials no warning is more needed. From the smallest community to the state legislature brazen attempts are being made repeatedly to support or partly support some undeserving individual on the public treasury. It seems sufficient argument for many that the tax-payers as a body will stand the expense, for the public conscience is anything but sensitive with regard to reids on state or municipal funds. Frequently a petition for a pension is based on some just claim but the great majority of them are preposterous demands for unmerited and untimely aid.

It is meet that public officials who have been injured and partially or wholly disabled in the discharge of their duty should receive a pension; it is furthermore meet that the widows, children so disabled should receive some degree of public support. Perhaps an occasional pension on behalf of very old employees is desirable to the public. The official or employee, however, who has lived a long life at good pay should not expect to be kept for the remainder of his days if he decides that work is tiresome and that he would much rather wind up his life in peace and rest. The poor mill operative or other hard-working individual who toils as long as he is able could hardly see the justice of the flagrant discrimination in favor of the public servant.

This brings us to a view of the Pennsylvania and Nebraska have such a law and Indiana has had it for ten years or more. Only in Massachusetts, however, does it extend for such a long period of time and cover so many industries. A contemporary draws attention to the laws of Europe which are far more stringent in this respect, and deprecates the attempt now being made in New York to set the states apart.

regulation at nought there. The law is just, humane and necessary one, and it is to be hoped that the courts will not decide against it. Even should it be declared unconstitutional, however, it will be re-enacted in some other form, for no humanitarian state could long tolerate the working of men who want to see life is that they imagine there is none of it worth seeing by daylight.

Boston has an ice man seven feet and a half tall. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says Boston is welcome to keep him. By the time a man like that bends down and picks up a 10-cent cube of ice it has melted away until it's hardly worth a car ticket.

SEEN AND HEARD

Troubles are like babies; they grow large by nursing.

A sucker is born every minute; give the babies a chance.

The majority of the rising young men of today run elevators.

No one ever heard a messenger boy being touched to the quick.

Children cry for the moon; when they grow up they want the earth.

The busy little boot-black never fails to improve each shining hour.

A messenger boy may possess plenty of sand—but it is not quick-sand.

The easiest thinking for a boy to catch with a bent pin is a school teacher.

It takes about four generations of riches to produce a boy without freckles.

The more aimless a boy is the better he likes to run around with shot-gun.

Kissing a fashionable young lady on the cheek is one way to remove paint.

Waste little time arguing with people who don't care.

Ever know a young widow to faint if there was no man around?

Most men would be ashamed to preach half what they practice.

Love stories are so attractive that a girl is liable to forget to wash the dishes.

No wonder Solomon was the champion wise man, with 1000 wives to coach him.

A man isn't necessarily a carpenter because he is an expert joiner; he may be a minister.

Many a good fellow has an excellent memory for faces and a poor memory for debts.

Every time we hear of a wedding we wonder how the girl asked the man to marry her.

The New York Times says many a man's only idea of improving his time is tinkering with his watch.

A man never has real trouble until he has a son big enough to wear his clothes.

Blessings are like children; to be appreciated they should be few and far between.

It is the little things that count—especially when they come as twins and triplets.

The trouble with a great many young men is they don't like to work between meals.

A bad boy seldom gets his badness from his father. The old man usually hangs on to all he has.

Children and fools always tell the truth; and they generally have an undisputed monopoly of it.

Soror teachers who have taught the young idea how to shoot, apparently did not know it was loaded.

When a young man is sowing his wild oats, he hopes that something will happen to destroy the crop.

The young man who would take life easy should be careful to select a wealthy and influential father.

The youthful graduate is the only person who knows exactly how this country should be run successfully.

It is easy for a youth to paddle his own canoe when his parents buy the canoe and paddle for him.

Some young men would get along better if they had less point to their shoes and more to their conversation.

A boy loses faith in his mother's rectitude when she tells him that it hurts her more than it does him, to whip him.

Most youngsters of this age learn so rapidly that it is almost impossible for the average high school to keep up with them.

Pity the poor young man who parts his hair in the middle—he has to do it to prevent his mind from becoming unbalanced.

The boy with long flaxen curls looks a great deal prettier to his mother than to the short-haired little boys who play with him.

It is all right to impress a child with the G. W. cherry-tree story, but it is foolish to follow it up with the gift of a hatchet.

The trouble with a great many young men is that they are not good.

I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;

Knowledge, said the school;

Truth, said the wise man;

Pleasure, said the fool;

Love, said the maiden;

Beauty, said the page;

Freedom, said the dreamer;

Home, said the sage;

Fame, said the soldier;

Equity, said the seer.

Spake my heart full sadly:

"The answer is not here."

They within my bosom,

Softly this I hear;

Each heart holds the secret,

Kindness is the word."

Yours most cordially,

John A. Nicholls.

Dear Sir:—Congratulations on the Souvenir edition of May 1st. Your State, I have read it with pleasure. I desire to record my appreciation of the high standard of the "Sun" in regard to liquor advertising. It is worthy of the highest praise. Good for the "Sun"—long may it shine with undiminished light! Years ago, on a visit to this city, I was here when Hon. W. E. Gladstone introduced the home rule bill, and I was glad to be here again, last Monday night, when it passed its third reading. The lords cannot now prevent it from becoming law. Thus the world moves—and democracy triumphs.

BOSTON CHARTER 100 YEARS OLD

The Argument for and Against Plan Presented to Gov. Walsh

BOSTON, June 8.—Arguments for and against signing the new city charter bill increasing the membership of the Boston city council from nine men elected at large to 17, of whom 12 should be elected by districts were presented before Governor Walsh at the state house today by supporters and opponents of the measure.

I am asked to deny to the people of Boston the right to say whether they want a change in their city government," said the governor at the end of the hearing. "To do that would be to say that they have not the intelligence and patriotism to pass upon the question."

The bill, which has been passed by both branches of the legislature, carries a referendum clause.

PINKLETS

A Dainty Laxative That Gently Assists Nature

The day of harsh purgatives, of big cathartic pills is over—gone forever. No need any longer to swallow a nauseating dose to give nature the gentle assistance required. Pinklets, the new laxative, are tiny, pink granules, sugar-coated, easy to take and smooth as velvet, in their operation.

Pinklets positively will not gripe. They produce not a single distressing symptom, yet their action is certain and thorough.

Pinklets are just the laxative you need to arouse the lazy, sluggish bowels and torpid liver. Don't keep on using harsh, strong purgatives for they always upset the stomach and leave the bowels irritated and in a worse condition than before. Rely on Pinklets to gently assist the bowels and be free from constipation.

These little pills are a corrective for bad breath, will clear the complexion and are recommended for torpid liver, biliousness, headaches and constipation.

Any druggist can supply you with Pinklets, 25 cents per bottle.

Write to Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a Pinklet book which tells all about the right way to treat constipation.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED.

BOSTON, June 8.—Charles B. Blinn and Benton Whidden were appointed receivers for the Bandall-Fauchine Co., manufacturers of surgical and office supplies by Federal Judge Dodge today. The company has factories at Roxbury and at Watertown, N. Y. Its liabilities are estimated at $252,000.

The petition for the receivership, which was unopposed, was filed Thursday by the creditors who averred that while the company was probably solvent it might become insolvent unless receivers took charge of its affairs.

CITY LABORERS DEFEAT CIVIL SERVICE SCHEME

Majority Against it on Secret Ballot—Officer Whitney Retired on Pension—Resolutions on Death of Jacob Rogers—Other Matters Considered

At a regular meeting of the municipal council held this noon the petition of some of the city employees asking the council to place all city employees on the civil service list was killed after the result of the balloting of the employees themselves had been announced, which showed a majority of 35 votes against the said petition from a total of 633 votes cast.

The council voted to place Patrolman Frank H. Whitney on the pension roll, and decided to give another petition, Peter Donohue, an employee of the water department, a hearing next Tuesday. Considerable routine business was transacted and resolutions in reference to the death of Jacob Rogers, a former alderman, were adopted.

The Meeting

The meeting which was scheduled for 11 o'clock was opened an hour later by Mayor Murphy and all commissioners were present. The first matter to be disposed of was a number of petitions from the Lowell Electric Light Corp. and the New England Telephone Co. for pole locations and all were referred.

M. Schuman petitioned to have Ware street put in good condition and the matter was referred to the commissioner of streets and highways. John J. Gilbride and others petitioned to have Prospect street macadamized and the said petition was also referred. On the petition of Charles E. Fuller for permission to remove a building from Fourth avenue to Mt. Hope street, it was voted to give him a hearing on June 30.

Katherine B. Ready and Anna G. Roarke presented claims for damages to personal property and both were referred to the city solicitor. Petition from the Lowell Motor Boat club for a license to keep gasoline at a garage was referred to the commissioner of public safety.

On the petitions of M. F. Murphy and G. A. Noves, both were appointed weighers of hay and other articles. An order for the payment of $445.72 for bills incurred by the streets and highways department during the year 1913 was read and adopted.

Officer Whitney Pensioned

Mayor Murphy announced that he had received a communication from City Physician M. A. Thigle in reference to the physical condition of Patrolman Frank H. Whitney, in connection with the officer's petition that he be placed on the pension roll, and at the recommendation of the mayor all voted in favor of placing the officer on the pension roll.

A communication from the Massachusetts board of education was received, asking that the city to co-operate with the board in repairing the sidewalks in the vicinity of the state Normal school. On motion of Commissioner Brown it was voted to communicate with the board and ascertain whether or not the work has already been given to a contractor and also to make an appointment with the said board for next Tuesday.

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

Saturday next will be your last chance to see the wonderful painting, valued at $60,000, of "The Village Blacksmith," painted by H. De Marean in a blacksmith shop in Lyons, France, in 1893. The impression that it creates is so vividly realistic as to recall the words in Longfellow's eternal Psalm of Labor—

"The smith, a mighty man was he, With large and sinewy bands; And the muscles of his brawny arms Are strong as iron bands."

GRADUATION DAY AT ROGER HALL SCHOOL

THE ROGERS HALL SCHOOL

Brilliant Array of Young Ladies at the Exercises—Address by Prof. Tupper of Vermont—Presentation of Class Gift to the School Accepted by Rev. Appleton Grannis

Never in the long and eventful history of the exclusive Rogers Hall school did it look more inviting or fairer than this morning when hundreds of men and women, young and old, gathered to be present at the commencement exercises that marked the graduation of the class of 1914.

Not only was Lowell society strongly represented but from many neighboring and distant states had come relatives and immediate friends of the graduates to share in the pleasure and happiness that make the commencement exercises of such a school as Rogers Hall unique in enjoyment.

Before the commencement of the formal program many of the ladies and gentlemen present, led by charming students of the school, walked through the spacious grounds and admired the various buildings, particularly the splendid gymnasium which

Rogers Hall is justly proud of. Others explored the various parlors, the library, the drawing-room, the dormitory,

ANTILLA WILL LAND ARMS FOR REBELS AT TAMPICO

With Danger of Clash Between United States and Huerta Removed Interest in Mexican Situation Turned to Mediation Proceedings—No War Indemnity From Mexico

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Secretary Wilson, after a conference with President Wilson before the regular cabinet meeting today, announced that the president and he were hopeful that the constitutionalists would participate in the mediation negotiations at Niagara Falls.

The secretary of state apparently was much encouraged over the present prospect for success of the mediation conference.

His increased hopes, it is believed here, were based on reports that had reached him from agents of the constitutionalists who have been in communication with General Carranza at Saltillo.

What is the exact nature of Carranza's attitude toward the recent communication of the mediators has not yet been disclosed but further communication from Carranza was expected later today. In view of this it was deemed likely that Carranza's answer to the mediators would not be forwarded to Niagara Falls today.

Mrs. Zulueta, confidential agent of Carranza, prepared a direct wire to Carranza last night and forwarded his formation on the situation here for influence him in regard to the Antilla.

The ship was properly cleared from this port, there has been no attempt at concealment of the nature of our cargo," he said, "and there is no reason at present why the Antilla should not land at Tampico.

"Of course we shall hold ourselves in readiness to obey instructions from Washington but unless there are new developments between now and tomorrow nothing will prevent the discharge of the Antilla's cargo."

MEXICO WILL NOT BE ASKED TO PAY INDEMNITY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 9.—Mexico will not be asked by the United States to pay war indemnity. The Huerta government has learned through the American delegates that the Wilson administration had previously agreed to the U.S. offer to stop voluntarily the discharge of the ammunition.

Mr. Smith said he had received no instructions from Washington whatsoever and that there had been no attempt

ELECTRIC RAILWAY TRUST PLANNED FOR BAY STATE

Provisions of Plan for Merger of Boston Elevated, Bay State St. Ry., West End St. Ry. and Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Road Into Corporation Made Public

BOSTON, June 9.—Provisions of a plan for a merger of the Boston Elevated railway, the Bay State Street railway, and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road into a corporation to be known as the Commonwealth Electric Railroad company, were made public today. It was announced that a bill embodying this proposition would be submitted to the legislative committee on railroads and metropolitan affairs today by James F. Jackson, former railroad commissioner, acting as counsel for the Bay State Street railway. A similar plan recently was advocated by President Patrick F. Sullivan of the Bay State at a hearing before a legislative committee as a solution for traffic problems in the metropolitan district.

Under the provisions of the bill, the new corporation would be authorized to increase fares to an extent necessary to properly provide for maintenance and depreciation and a reasonable return on the capital actually invested.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Though the bard to purer fame may soar,
Though wild youth's past;
Though heaven the wife, who frowned,
To smile at last,
He'll never meet
A joy so sweet.
In all his noon of fame,
As when first he sung to woman's ear
His soul-felt name,
And at every close she blushed to hear
The pure lover named.
A pure love may bloom,
And days may come,
But there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.

Centuries of a century ago Cupid was busy in Lowell as he is today, and from it appears from the columns of the old Sun was the favorite month of months, even as now. Times and manners may change, but the love of today is as old as the traditional hills. In looking over The Sun of 23 years ago I find accounts of the weddings of many well known men and women. Since those merriment days, in some cases, happy family circles have been broken by the inexorable intruder, who enters with impartial step the cottages of the poor and the palaces of the rich, leaving earth one angel less and causing to leave one angel more while, in others the bride and groom of a century ago still preside over the home their happiness having increased with the increasing years. A philosopher once said: "Memory can gladden, but can never renew; it brings us joys, faint as is the perfume of the flowers, faded and dim; but of the summer that is gone." But who would not long to those faint joys and hope propitious? I repeat some of the interesting notices of quarter of a century ago, confident that those mentioned will concern in the sentiment so beautifully expressed by James Whitcomb Riley:

"Tis a frequent retrospection for the lucky thoughts that start into being like pretences from the blossoms of the heart:
And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine.
When my trout fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine."

With the above familiar names as the headlines, the old Sun says:

"Mr. Charles W. Holmes, of the firm of Mark Holmes, Jr., & Son, woodturners and Miss Catherine S. Martin were married at the church of St. John the Baptist by Rev. Richard S. Parkard of St. Patrick's. Mr. Peter A. Kelly was best man and Miss Mary A. O'Gorman of Lawrence was maid-of-honor. The ceremony was private, none but the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes will occupy a new residence at the Royal street early in July. The house was occupied in The Sun office up to a few weeks ago."

HENRY L. WATSON SALVATION ARMY

Manager of Tobin Printery Weds Miss Sullivan of Jamaica Plain

LONDON, June 9.—The American delegates to the world's conference of the Salvation Army, 300 strong, with Miss Eva Booth, chief of the Army in the United States, at their head and accompanied by three bands, marched this morning from the army headquarters in the city of London to the American embassy in Victoria street, where they were reviewed by Ambassador Walter Hines Page.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at the church of Our Lady of Lourdes at 9:30 a.m. by the bride's brother, Rev. Charles J. Sullivan, D. C. L., secretary to Cardinal O'Connell. Rev. Fr. Sullivan was assisted in performing the ceremony by Rev. George A. Lyons, the pastor and Rev. John E. Sexton, D. D. of St. John's seminary, Brighton. Only immediate families of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, which was simple but impressive. The bride was becomingly attired in ivory opera satin trimmed with lace, and wore a veil arranged in a cap effect caught up with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilles of the valley.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Bridget Agnes Sullivan, who wore pale pink chameuse, draped with French net, a lace hat and carried Killarney roses. The best man was Mr. Peter Watson, brother of the groom. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The young couple left for an extended trip to Washington and Norfolk, Va., and upon their return will be at home to friends at 121 Lakeview avenue, Lowell.

Miss Booth thanked the ambassador on behalf of her comrades.

The American delegates will attend the opening of the congress tomorrow.

UNIFICATION OF TIME

SENATE RATIFIES CONVENTION PROVIDING FOR ORGANIZATION OF INTERNATIONAL TIME ASSO.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The action of the senate in ratifying the convention providing for the organization of an international time association created considerable interest in scientific circles here today. Belief was expressed that this step would give impetus to the movement to secure unification of time throughout the world. Twenty-four other countries have subscribed to the convention and are expected to follow the lead of the United States in ratifying the instrument. Other nations are admissible.

The object of the association is the unification of time by the use of wireless telegraphy or other signals, whether they be of extreme precision or ordinary signals.

The story of the man who inspected his new automobile, compared it with catalog specifications and wrote the same kind of a truth when his business warrant expansion.

When trucks leave the factory and when they are delivered to the customer, they should be in perfect condition, ready to start in on the hardest kind of work. If they are overloaded or overspeeded and never inspected or adjusted, there is sure to be trouble, and that is why distributors should maintain perfect service departments in their plants. In other words, their responsibility doesn't cease when the truck is sold—it only begins.

"Crank it by hand? Why this car has a self-starter!" explained the uncomprehending tourist. "When I want to spin the motor, I push down on this plunger."

"Sure, but don't you ever have to help it? Isn't there a hand crank comes with the car?"

A gleam of new truth came to the motorist.

TEWKSBURY TOWN HALL

Prepares to Sue the Street Railway Company for Two $5000 Bonds—Town Meeting Held

The citizens of Tewksbury were cut in large numbers at the special town meeting which was held last night at the town hall in the centre and they all showed considerable interest in the matters that were brought before the assembly. The meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the report of the committee appointed at the last regular meeting to look into the possibility of installing a water system in the town for fire protection and domestic uses, and the selectmen took occasion to insert a few other items of interest in the warrant.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by the town clerk and the election of a moderator took place, Melvin Rogers, Esq., being chosen to occupy the chair.

Under article two to hear the report of the committee on water supply for the town and to see if the town will vote to take further action, it was voted according to the report of the said committee to let the matter rest for some time. The committee which was composed of Frank Barnes, M. A. Patten, George W. Trull, Enoch W. Foster and Joel W. Spalding, reported against the proposition for the present and the report was accepted.

Article three was to see if the town would vote to appoint a committee to have the town hall repaired and improved and also to appropriate a sum necessary to pay for same. This article was the cause of considerable discussion and finally it was voted to expend the sum of $100 for repairs and a special committee was appointed to look into the possibility of erecting a new town hall.

The article had been inserted into the warrant by Selectman Harry L. Shedd who said that since there was not his personal preference. He said last fall the door was condemned and the sum of $100 was spent to put it in shape. The end result, the state inspectors have ordered the doors

CLOUGH-GORDON

Mr. Henry Prentiss Clough and Miss Ethel Myrtle Gordon were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, 50 Fifth street, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Farster Mac Donald, the double ring service being used. The couple were attended by Miss Emma Study of Boston and Mr. Mitchell Clough, a brother of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a luncheon was served and the couple left by automobile on a trip to the mountains. Mr. Clough is a prominent business man of Centralville, and the wife is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

changed and the rotters altered, and the Tewksbury board of health has condemned the sanitaries. The room is heated by an old fashioned stove and the selectman said he thought it would be well to install a steam-heating system. He said he believed the necessary alterations would cost about $500, and accordingly George W. Trull offered a motion that that sum be appropriated, but he urged the erection of a new building. After considerable discussion the motion was killed and it was voted to spend the sum of $100 for necessary repairs and the following committee was appointed to look into the possibility of erecting a new building. Dr. H. M. Larabee, Frank Carter, John L. Fleming and Harry L. Shedd.

Article four was to see if the town could appoint a committee to investigate and report on the necessity for either an addition to the Foster school or a new school building. This motion was discussed at length and finally the writer was referred to a special committee composed of the following: Wilbur Patten of the school board, Selectman Premiah K. Chandler and Charles H. Kittredge, they to report at the next annual town meeting.

Fire Protection

Article five was to hear a report of the selectmen on fire protection, and Mr. Shedd made a report of progress, stating that new fire apparatus had been ordered and that in the near future a volunteer department will be organized.

To the Street Railway Company

It was thought that the matter concerning the controversy between the town and the Bay State Street Railway company would be taken up although there was no mention in the warrant, but no one word was said and accordingly the selectmen will use their own judgment in an effort to recover on two bonds of $100 each which were filed by the company a few years ago in relation to a franchise for the extension of the Andover street car line to North Tewksbury.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

MISS VALAIRE VALERIE Who is Appearing This Week With the Merrimack Square Theatre Players in "The Lottery Man"

R. E. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Brewster's Millions," the third big Lasky story production to be presented in this city, entertained a large audience at R. E. Keith's theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. The picture is the original company which first dramatized the story written by George Barr McCutcheon, and which is probably his greatest comedy drama attempt, with Edward Abbot in the role of "Monty Brewster."

The story ambles along pleasantly, and yet very strenuously, for a time, until the popular and resourceful "Montgomery Brewster" is made to do things happen. We see "Monty" in his mad endeavor to live up to the terms of the will, letting on the interior of a prize fight-and-wining match, putting on a worthy stock and seeing it rise thereby making much money; putting an apple through a railroad track and seeing it twisted to pieces and finally hoisting the flag on the rudderless yacht "Flitter" that it may lose $500,000 in value and be classed as salvage. After his heavy losses at Monte Carlo, the loss of "Monty" practically broke, and in this condition he presented himself to the attorney for his uncle, who promptly turned over to him the six million for which he had recked his brains.

Through the five reels there runs a young man who resorts to a lottery in his endeavor to win the young lady, the pretty will which "Brewster" beloved, he could not become love-enraptured during the year he was spending the money. It was mighty hard for him and he nearly lost forever the girl he loved, but like all good drama should it ended with a wedding in view.

In addition to this big feature there is a Lubin picture, "The Signal," which is dramatic, and the Hearst-Sell News pictorial showing scenes in the country and Mexico. Samuel Wallace, a singer, gives a broad range of songs during the visit between reels.

"Brewster's Millions," with the ear-splitting features, will be given twice today and tomorrow, and it will be followed by a splendid reproduction of "Jack London's 'Sea Wolf'." The price of admission is 19 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

The Merrimack Square Theatre players are this week seen in "The Lottery Man," a four-act comedy from the pen of Cyril Scott, and if the remaining performances make as favorable an impression as last evening's did, there is no doubt but the production will be one of the most successful ever presented by this popular company.

The story of the play is very interesting and it also has a number of humorous parts that will please the patrons of the theatre. A New York city young man who is trying to win the love of a handsome young lady finally decides that the only way to get her heart and hand is to run a gamine. For a time things go along smoothly, but the young man thinks that he will surely bring his girl to his fortune when complications arise and threaten to destroy his future happiness. However, when everything appears to be against him there is a sudden change, and after a number of amusing and exciting incidents, the curtain is lowered with everyone satisfied.

The play is very capably handled by the members of the cast and audience was just evening's performance. Walter Stoen, as Jack Wright, the young man who resorts to a lottery in his endeavor to win the young lady, is very pleasing and attractive, but is capable of handling the comic parts as well as he does in the straight dramatic offerings. As Helene Heyen, Jack's choice, Miss Valarie Valerie who returns to this city for another engagement drew a good hand. Miss Valerie's work is of a high standard and she promises to win many more Lowell friends. Miss Iva Eddy, as Elizabeth Roberts, companion to Mrs. Stoen, interprets her lines very well and shows some merit in her manner of delivery. While Miss May B. Hurst as Mrs. Weston, who is anxious not to show any signs of advancing age, is also very good. The other members of the company, including Miss Josephine Emery, Miss Geneva Williams, the Lowell girls, Chas. Stevens and Stewart Wilson are exceptionally good. "The Lottery Man" will be presented afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, and it surely deserves a liberal patronage.

The Kursite

I don't know what the Brazilian Maxixe is. Do you? I'm going to dance tonight, though, and Mr. and Mrs. Packard are to be my instructors. At the dancing feasts, such as this pair of dances will dominate the modern dances, including the maxixe, tango, the hesitation and a few others about which more or less comment has been made. I am informed that such dances are strictly proper, as the women actually depicted. The Kursite manager knows that there is no objection to them, the Packards dance them, and the engagement of the Packards is primarily educational. When Lowell people learn to dance as do the Packards, there will come a cessation of taunt criticism. The exhibition is free to all.

THE OWL THEATRE

Of all the stirring detective stories ever shown on a screen "Kingsmen" stands in a class of its own. It is gripping in interest and dramatic moments abound in every new film. It is being shown again today at the Owl, with other equally interesting films. "The Strike," a magnificent drama produced with phases and one interested in American working conditions. "The Diggers" and "The Empress of Ireland" is another great picture being flashed on the screen. Every one is acquainted with the facts of this great maritime tragedy and in this film everything of interest has been abridged for showing. Other good pictures are to be shown. Jack Dalton will sing and the sliding roof will always keep you cool and comfortable.

FOREST NOTES

Four buffalo calves have just been born on the Wichita national forest, bringing the herd up to 51.

In co-operation with the weather bureau, forest rangers are to measure snow depths in the western mountains.

Students of the Oregon Agricultural college are working at the forest nursery on the Siuslaw forest. The arrangement is said to be mutually satisfactory since the students gain experience in forest nursery practice and their assistance lowers the cost of nursery work.

Manufacturers have found that red alder from the Pacific coast is a suitable material for clothespins. Alder makes a white, smooth, spruce pin. As a result of this fact, a clothespin factory, said to be the first on the Pacific coast, may be established at Portland, Ore.

The city of Tacoma, Washington, has entered into a cooperative agreement with the forest service for the protection of the source of its water supply, the watershed of the Green river, which lies within the Rainier national forest. The two agencies working together will protect this stream from the results of forest destruction by fire or by other agencies.

BIG EVENT FOR POULTRYMEN— CANNING CLUBS PROMISE GREAT RESULTS

Poultrymen throughout New England will be interested to know that the annual poultrymen's convention of the Massachusetts Agricultural college is to be held at Amherst, July 22, 23, and 24. All indications point to an attendance this year of well above 1000. One of the special features this year will be a series of large charts, drawings, photographs and descriptive matter representing the correct equipment and proper management of a small Massachusetts poultry farm in all its details. The grounds, the house, the number of hens per acre and per man, and the details of care and management will be graphically and completely illustrated. In addition there will be an acre and a half of an educational and commercial exhibit as possible. The program consists of three solid days of lectures and demonstrations by the best authorities in the country. Representatives of poultry departments from all of the New England agricultural colleges and a number of other states will be present. Professor J. C. Graham is hard at work making final arrangements for the program. This program in full will be issued about the middle of June and can be secured from two to five dollars a day. Canning clubs from all over the country will have a government label on which is stamped the number of the club and the number of the girl doing the work so that a defective can easily be traced to its source. A large number of requests are being received by the college from granges and fair associations for canning demonstrations. The phase of the work promises to be a very important economic factor.

In Colorado Coal Fields—Expect President Wilson to Accept Amendments on Tolls

WASHINGTON, June 8.—President Wilson is expected to accept the Senate amendments to the Panama tolls exemption, repealing specifying that the United States does not waive its right to discriminate in favor of its own shipping but he does not feel that the Senate gives its assent to the repeal in "ungrudging measure" by attaching amendments.

Mr. Wilson takes the position that as legislation in no way waives treaty rights he may accept the measure, although he desired passage of the repeal without limitation.

MATRIMONIAL

A pretty marriage was solemnized yesterday at St. Joseph's rectory, when Mr. J. Albert Hamel, formerly employed in The Sun's stereotype department, and now at the Haarhill Gazette, and Miss Alberta Gregoire were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 a. m. by Rev. Augustin Graton, D. M. I. The witnesses were John T. Vincent and Azarie Hamel. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Azarie Hamel, 156 Guelph avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. Present at the wedding from out-of-town were Azarie Hamel, Jr., of Fort Arthur, Ont., Georges Gregoire of Manchester, and Romeo Salvail of Nashua. Mr. and Mrs. Hamel, who were the recipients of many costly gifts, left on the 10:10 o'clock train for Canada, where for the next few weeks they will visit relatives at Sherbrooke, Wotton, Danville and Montreal. Upon their return in two weeks they will make their home in Haarhill.

In answer to questions concerning the Colombian treaty, the president today said Secretary Bryan still has that and the Nicaraguan treaty under consideration and no definite time has been made as to when they will be submitted to the senate.

Troops will not be withdrawn from the Colorado coal fields immediately. The White House has reason to believe that a conference will soon come about between the warring forces which doubtless will end in a settlement of differences, and make possible the withdrawal of federal troops without danger of further conflict.

THE PLANNING BOARD

FAILED TO MEET AS ARRANGED—
THERE WAS NOT A QUORUM AND
SESSION WAS POSTPONED

The meeting of the planning board, which was scheduled to be held at 2:30 yesterday afternoon at city hall, did not materialize although Messrs. Murphy and J. Walter Bowers, two prominent members of the board, arrived on schedule time, and remained there until nearly 3:30 o'clock.

Mayor Murphy, who is chairman of the board, was unable to be present although it was at his request that the meeting was called, for he attended a musical at the Notre Dame academy. Jesse D. Crook, secretary of the board, had his hands full at the convention of the Buffaloes, while Arthur Genest, James E. Donnelly and Charles C. Anderson, the other members of the board, could not be located. Messrs. Murphy and Bowers had several plans to submit but as they could not muster a quorum they held them in reserve.

It is alleged that Mr. Bowers has plans for new parks, improved street work and greater municipal economy.

Mr. Murphy allowed that a few more futile attempts to meet will place the planning board among the things that might have been.

Speculation was stagnant in the early afternoon and prices barely moved. London operations were small.

The copper producers' statement showing an increase of 14,000,000 pounds in supplies together with statements that prices for the metal were rising around 14 cents were without adverse influence on the copper shares.

The market closed easy. Outside news had little influence on values, although there were important developments that the street had long been awaiting. The supreme court decision in the Shreveport rate case favoring the railroads and the bullish crop figures failed to stir the market. Realizing and short selling forced back prices all around toward the end, trading reacting a point.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Supreme court today upheld the Interstate the Shreveport rate case, thus placing

Referring to the noted Minnesota quoted cases under the safety applica-

COURTING DANGER

It is a well known fact that sports in which there is an element of danger have a peculiar fascination for the minds of the young. The season is on us when this truth will be proved only too well for from now on news of rivers, ponds and beaches will not be complete without the accounts of drownings and other deaths due to the daring of those who ignore danger day after day hundreds in this state alone go out in frail canoes and unpredictable boats, and despite warnings of press and public the death toll piles up alarmingly. Our own city has had some sad fatalities already and the papers of yesterday related similar occurrences in Boston, Providence, New Haven and other places.

Another example of this love of boys and young men for dangerous sports comes from Lynn, where on Saturday a lad had playing the game of "Follow the Leader" climbed a telephone pole and came in contact with a live wire with dire results. Pole climbing and tree climbing is common in all cities, and the wonder is that the fatalities are not far more numerous. Then again in a short walk one will see children who walk on bridge parapets, those who swim in the dangerous canals and the leader of those who play in the public streets to the despair of automobileists. No law would be complete without the little fellows who steal a ride on the electric cars, on auto and on all other vehicles. Children must have their sports apparently even though this sport endangers their life. Generally the instant adventurer who runs risks survives to boast of his fear to his companions but more frequently there is a failure followed by a grief-stricken home and a long rest in the cemetery.

How may children be permitted to play and yet play safely? Evidently all danger cannot be eliminated, and perhaps it would not be well to curb the adventurous spirit that is linked with some of the best qualities of the developing mind. Yet it is out of the question that young people should be permitted to throw their lives away without an effort being made to save them from their folly and inexperience. There is a distinct responsibility upon the municipality to provide all sections with playgrounds where youth may play at will under the proper supervision and no playground system is complete without facilities for summer bathing. No one can hope to prevent death from foolishness entirely, but a great deal can be done and will eventually be done when the public becomes aware of the awful list of tragedies due to municipal negligence.

A special word of warning should be given to young men who go to summer camps and vacation resorts for at such times the spirit of bravado leads many a promising career to its finish. Words are vain to point the dangers, for the strongest argument of all is the stout-hearted and yet hundreds who should be warned by such as even will continue in their dangerous practices. There are scores of ways to get real enjoyment and pleasure out of life in the summer season without running a risk of losing one's life, and parents, guardians and friends of young men and boys should strive to impress on them at the beginning of the season the absolute folly of the indifference or bravado that would lead them into personal danger.

ABUSE OF PENSIONS

One of the most frequent warnings issued at the present time by all sincere and disinterested students of public affairs is that which has to do with the growing abuse of pensions, and judging by the number of requests made by individuals and groups of public officials no warning is needed. From the smallest community to the state legislature, braveness attempts are being made repeatedly to support or partly support some undeserving individual on the public treasury. It seems sufficient argument for many that the taxpayers as a whole will stand the expense, for the public conscience is anything but sensitive with regard to rules on state or national funds. Frequently a petition for a pension is based on some just claim but the great majority of them are preposterous demands for gratification and unmitigated self-indulgence.

It is noted that public officials who have been injured and partially or wholly disabled in the discharge of the trust of contract. It was re-enacted in 1903 with the above-noted changes.

Four other states in this country prohibit work at night for women, a degree of public support. Perhaps an occasional pension on behalf of very old employees is desirable to the public. The official or employee, however, who has lived a long life at good pay should not expect to be kept for the remainder of his days if he decides that work is income and that he would much rather wind up his life in peace and rest. The poor mill operator or other hard-working individual who tells us long as he is able could hardly see the justice of the demand discrimination in favor of the public servant.

This brings us to a view of the Pennsylvania and Nebraska have such a law and Indiana has had it for ten years or more. Only in Massachusetts, however, does it extend for such a long period of time and cover so many industries. A contemporary draws attention to the laws of Europe which are more stringent in this respect, and deplores the attempt now being made in New York to set the state apart.

regulation at nought there. The law is a just, humane and necessary one, and it is to be hoped that the court will not decide against it. Even should it be declared unconstitutional, however, it will be re-enacted in some other form, for no humanitarian state could long tolerate the working of women at night in laborious occupations.

men who want to see life is, that they imagine there is none of it worth seeing by daylight.

Boston has an old man seven feet and half tall. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says Boston is welcome to keep him. By the time a man like that bends down and picks up a 10-cent cube of ice it has melted away until it's hardly worth a car ticket.

SUN SOUVENIR EDITION

The Sun Souvenir edition has travelled far and wide, but judging by the many warm tributes received from all quarters, its fame has travelled farther. Most of the press notices have already been printed but aside from them there were many letters and messages of congratulation of a more or less personal or private nature, and these have not been published. The following letter, however, deserves special notice, not only because of its recognition of The Sun's excellence and admiration for its policy, but for the sidelight it throws on the Irish home rule situation. The writer is the well known Professor John A. Nichols of Boston, originally of Lowell, where his father resided. Instructor in historical history, social reforms, etc., Mr. Nichols is at present in London, lecturing on a lecture tour in leading European cities.

Bonington Hotel, London
May 28, 1914

Editor "Sun,"
Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.

Dear Sir: Congratulations on the Souvenir edition of May 6th. Here far away from the old Bay State, I have read it with pleasure. I desire to record my appreciation of the high standard of the "Sun" in regard to liquor advertising. It is worthy of the highest praise. Good for the "Sun"—long may it shine with undiminished light! Years ago, on a visit to this city, I was here with Hon. W. E. Gladstone introduced the home rule bill, and I was glad to be here again, last Monday night, when it passed its third reading. The lords cannot now prevent it from becoming law. Thus the world moves—and democracy triumphs.

Tours most cordially,
John A. Nichols.

KINDNESS IS THE WORD

(By John Boyle O'Reilly)
"What is the real good?"

I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Pleasure, said the fool;
Love, said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;
Freedom, said the dreamer;
Home, said the sage;
Faith, said the soldier;
Equity, said the seer.

Spoke my heart full sadly:
"The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom,
Softly this I heard:
Each heart holds the secret,
Kindness is the word."

Most youngsters of this age learn so rapidly that it is almost impossible for the average high school to keep up with them.

Pity the poor young man who parts his hair in the middle—he has to do it to prevent his mind from becoming unbalanced.

JACOB ROGERS DEAD AT AGE OF 84 YEARS

Was One of Lowell's Foremost Citizens — Has Been Identified With Her Business and Industrial Life for Many Years— Sketch of His Career

Jacob Rogers is dead, and the city of Lowell has sustained a great loss, for on the roll of her prominent and well beloved citizens the name of Jacob Rogers led all the rest.

In the fullness of a comfortable old age that is the reward of a well spent youth, Mr. Rogers passed away at his home, 285 Andover street, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 10 days, after an illness borne with fortitude and resignation. Up to within a short time, Mr. Rogers was still a familiar figure down town for Time laid his hand gently upon him and though having exceeded the prescribed three score and ten by over a decade, he was still able to visit periodically the scenes of his former business activities where his presence was welcomed with reverential respect.

Jacob Rogers was descended from an old and honorable family his ancestors having played a prominent part in the early history of our country. The head of the family in this country settled here as far back as 1670, taking a leading part in colonial affairs. One of his ancestors, John Rogers, was president of Harvard college from 1682 to 1684 while another, Nathaniel Rogers, grandfather of the deceased, was a lawyer and a Judge living between 1745 and 1824.

Mr. Rogers was descended on his mother's side from Rev. Jacob Cram, a Congregational minister, and his maternal grandmother, Mary Poor was the daughter of General Enoch Poor of Revolutionary fame. Col. John Rogers, father of the deceased was born in Newmarket, N. H., July 2, 1787 and died in Exeter, July, 1857, leaving a widow and six children. Col. Rogers was one of the leading citizens of Exeter, and a graduate of Phillips Academy, and for 22 years was cashier of the Old Exeter bank. He served also as colonel of the Fourth Militia regiment and took a leading part in town affairs, serving 14 years continuously as a selectman. Col. Rogers was married three times, his first two wives being daughters of Col. Nathaniel Gilman of Exeter, and the third wife Martha Poor Cram, daughter of Rev. Jacob Cram. Jacob Rogers was a son by this last marriage.

Jacob Rogers was born in Exeter, July 23, 1829 and received his education in the schools of that town and at Phillips Exeter Academy. Upon leaving his studies he went to sea and spent three years before the mast making long voyages to India and China in the historic old Boston clippers, in days when ocean travel had not attained its present state of perfection, and his strenuous experiences as a sailor prepared him physically for the long and busy career that was to follow.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use It Like a Cold Cream and Dry Eczema Eruptions Right Up.

The moment you apply bold-sulphur to aitching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

A good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold creams. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with tortuous itching.

ACADEMY OF DIPLOMACY

ADVOCATED BY FORMER GOVERNOR GUILD IN ADDRESS BEFORE CHICAGO BAR ASSO.

CHICAGO, June 9.—The establishment of an American National academy of diplomacy on lines similar to those of West Point and the naval academy at Annapolis was advocated here last night by Curtis Guild, former governor of Massachusetts and former ambassador to St. Petersburg in an address before the Chicago Bar association.

"American soldiers have the best possible education," said Mr. Guild. "It is more necessary that American diplomats should receive a thorough technical training. It is an international proof that Russia has gained more by diplomacy than she has lost by war."

The public is entitled to such a school, not only because America would be better represented abroad but because the diplomatic and consular services would thus be drawn open on a competitive basis to all American citizens as are the army and navy."

PINKLETS

A Dainty Laxative That Gently Assists Nature

The day of harsh purgatives, of big cathartic pills is over—gone forever. No need any longer to swallow a nauseating dose to give nature the gentle assistance required. Pinklets, the new laxative, are tiny, pink granules, sugar coated, easy to take and smooth as velvet, in their operation.

Pinklets positively will not grip. They produce not a single distressing symptom, yet their action is certain and thorough.

Pinklets are just the laxative you need to arouse the lazy, sluggish bowels and torpid liver. Don't keep on using harsh, strong purgatives for they always upset the stomach and leave the bowels irritated and in a worse condition than before. Rely on Pinklets to gently assist the bowels and free from constipation.

These little pills are a corrective for bad breath, will clear the complexion and are recommended for torpid liver, biliousness, headaches and constipation.

Any druggist can supply you with Pinklets, 25 cents per bottle.

Write to Dr. William Medline Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a Pinklet book which tells all about the right way to treat constipation.

JUDGE SHERMAN DEAD

Famous Justice Presided Over Many Important Cases During 24 Years of Service on Bench

WINDSOR, Vt., June 9.—Judge William Edgar Sherman, who retired from the Massachusetts superior court bench in 1911, died at his summer home here at 1 o'clock this morning.

For the past 24 hours he had been unconscious. His death was momentarily expected. At his bedside was his son, Roland Sherman, an attorney of Boston.

WAS BORN ON A FARM

Judge Sheldon for 36 Years a Lawyer—Prosecuted Famous Murder Cases

BOSTON, June 9.—When Judge Edgar J. Sheldon retired from the superior court bench on a pension in 1911 he was one of the most famous justices in the country. During his 24 years of service he presided over many of the most important and difficult cases ever tried in this Commonwealth.

One of these was the trial of Charles L. Tucker, found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page of Weston and elected at the Charlestown state prison.

Judge Sheldon was called upon to conduct some very big cases and was almost uniformly successful. One of those was the case of Henry K. Goodwin, tried for the murder of Albert D. Swan in 1885. His opponent was General Benjamin F. Butler, but despite the latter's great ability as a lawyer he returned the verdict of murder in the second degree, and Goodwin was sentenced to imprisonment for life. He was in 1905 granted a conditional pardon.

Another important case was the trial of Sarah J. Robinson, accused of the murder of her son by poison.

Attorney-General Sherman prepared this case for trial with District Attorney Stevens, but before it came to trial he was appointed to the bench and the case was tried by his successor.

DESTITUTE JUSTICE IN 1857

Mr. Sherman was appointed a justice of the superior court by Governor Oliver Ames in the fall of 1857. One of the most interesting cases which Mr. Sherman was called upon to preside over after becoming judge was the trial of James A. Trefethan, charged with the murder of Delina J. Davis.

This case is notable from the fact that Judge Sherman, in his "recollections" states that every judge who presided over Trefethan's two trials believed him guilty, although he was finally acquitted.

WHY POLARINE IS MADE FROM PARAFFINE CRUDES

These days the face needs special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, and beating sun, are severe on any skin. Their spoiling effects are the best overcome by the application of pure ingredieents used. This skin and pores in a cleanly condition, complextion beautifully white and speckles. Discolored, freckled and青春的青春 are partially absorbed by it. One ounce of mineralized wax obtainable at any druggist is sufficient to completely renovate a soiled complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

The skin tends to expand in warm weather, causing wrinkles to form, a good nertralizing soap may be used. Dissolve 1 oz. powdered soap in a pint of linalol. Bathe the face in this during the heat of the day or before going out for theatre or social gathering. It is a remarkable skin tightener and wrinkle eraser.

Polarine

Frost Proof

Oil made from these crudes may look even thinner than other oils—at ordinary temperatures. But heat the oil and see what happens. The heavy oil becomes thin and watery. Polarine scarcely notices the heat. And it is in a high temperature that every auto lubricant has to work.

Polarine base oils have the natural viscosity at high temperatures that no manufacturing process can give a cheap motor oil.

Polarine, finished and ready for sale, costs us much more than other oils. But its use means permanent satisfaction to our customers. And permanent satisfaction has meant success for Polarine—the Standard oil for all motors.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

The Judge was the trial of John C. Best, indicted for the murder of George E. Bailey, in 1901. The trial was at Salem and Judge Fox was on the case with Judge Sherman. This case was exceedingly interesting because it was one of the most conclusively proven cases of circumstantial evidence ever tried in Massachusetts.

Refused Tucker New Trial

The next important murder trial was that of Charles L. Tucker, whose conviction caused the greatest stir since the days of the famous Bratt trial. A motion for a new trial was filed in superior court and heard by Justice Sherman alone, as Justice Sheldon, who sat on the first trial with him had in the meantime been appointed a justice of the supreme court. After a full hearing the motion for a new trial was overruled. Tucker was found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page, a Weston girl.

ROCKEFELLER'S TOWN

TARRYTOWN, N. Y. TRUSTEES SAY ASSERTION IS UNFOUNDED—AD-

VOCATE OF FREE SPEECH

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 9.—Advocates of free speech who have received their grievances against Tarrytown because of the refusal of the board of trustees to grant permits for public street gatherings last night for the first time were forced to listen to the grievances Tarrytown holds against them. At an open meeting the trustees and village president R. Pierson listened to free speech advocates and then forced the speakers to listen to the trustees' side of the wrangle, residents of the village forming a non-participating audience.

President Pierson told Upton Sinclair, Leonard Abbott, Theodore Schroeder, Frank Lowe and George Hallam Mumtaz who appeared as petitioners for permits to hold street meetings that Tarrytown's chief grievance was that the village had been referred to by them as "John D. Rockefeller's town." This assertion, President Pierson declared to be unfounded, as Mr. Rockefeller owned no property and had no interests in the village.

Then it was explained that the streets of Tarrytown belong to the abutting property and are subject to traffic control by the trustees who cannot grant permits for meetings in them. From suggestions made by several of the trustees it appeared that Tarrytown had decided to establish a free speech forum in some lot permission for the use of which may be obtained from the owner. The visitors were sent away with a notice that the trustees would give further consideration of the question on Wednesday night.

LET THE MILITANTS DIE

British Leaders Say Women Who Go on Hunger Strike Should be Allowed to Die

LONDON, June 9.—"Let them die" is becoming a rather popular slogan in connection with the "Hunger Striking" suffragettes since the public has become so profoundly resentful of the actions of the militant women.

It was reported yesterday that the government had decided to take a step in this direction by introducing legislation to indemnify prison authorities against the consequences of allowing suffragettes to starve themselves to death in prison.

The Evening Standard yesterday interviewed a number of prominent people, including clergymen, on the subject and all of the latter who are quoted by the newspaper, express themselves in favor of the proposal.

Fr. Bernard Vaughan, brother of the late Cardinal Vaughan, replied: "There would be nothing ethically wrong in letting them die. Let them start at once and make up for lost time."

Rev. Arthur Waldron, vicar of St. Matthew's, Brixton, said: "If the women refuse food they should be allowed to die."

Rev. Richard Free, vicar of St. Clement's, Fulham, replied: "I think the suggestion very good. I have advocated it for many months."

At the American Embassy

The American embassy was made a target for the militants yesterday, a woman giving the name of Mrs. H. Wunderhouse, who said she was an American, making noisy demands for an interview with Ambassador Page.

She said she was one of a delegation of suffragettes that was broken up while on the way to present a petition to King George at Buckingham Palace on May 21. She refused to tell what she wanted, except to the ambassador himself, and said she would continue coming until the ambassador consented to see her.

Another demonstration by a militant suffragette in the presence of King George and Queen Mary was carried out at the international horse show at Olympia yesterday afternoon. Their majesties had hardly taken

Noted Burglar to Spend Two and a Half Years in Jail

James W. Prindle was charged with 14 counts of breaking and entering and two of the counts he entered pleads of guilty.

According to the police, Prindle is the man who effected an entrance into several local houses in broad daylight and in many cases he got away with a number of valuables. The most of the alleged break-ins occurred last winter and he was later captured in Somerville.

The old directors of the community were also present and they turned over the finances and books as well as other matters pertaining to the community to the new board and the 21 recently elected directors took the oath of office. The result of the organization of the board was as follows: Peter Tavoularis, president; K. Boumias, directors.

The directors will meet again Wednesday evening for the purpose of electing a new school board and also to make arrangements to start work on the remodeling of the Plunkett residence in Worthen street for a parochial school.

THE CIRCUS COMING

Barnum and Bailey Will be Here on June 26, With Greatest Show on Earth

The Barnum & Bailey "Greatest Show on Earth" will exhibit here on June 26, and will offer a wealth of varied attractions for old and young greater than ever before.

This year's show is really two stupendous exhibitions in one. The spectacle and the circus acrobatic performances are two distinct undertakings, each vast and wonderful in itself. Their entertainment is opened with a colossal romantic spectacle, "The Wizard Prince of Arabia." Its scenes are from the haunts of the Bedouins to mysterious India, where Prince Abdallah, in the test of stern competition, wins the heart and hand of a king's fair and favorite daughter. More than one thousand people are enlisted in the presentation.

The prettiest, daintiest array of femininity ever assembled is disclosed and the terpsichorean revels of the ballerinas provide a gloriously iridescent eve feast.

The ending of the spectacle is but the beginning of the circus' acrobatic performances which is abridged in no particular and enlivens the daring and graceful services of 350 athletic celebrities.

Three cords of elephants open the circus tournament and display an entirely new repertoire of sagacious demonstrations calculated to suit the most jaded taste.

They dance the tango with convulsing abandon and play baseball with the human spirit of rivalry.

The three Leiberts, from Germany walk upside down in the high dome of the canvas. The Gillies Troupe of Germans, and the Barnes Brothers, from Switzerland, are marvels of graceful strength. The Ilos Troupe come from Sweden to display their skill and reckless daring in aerial bicycle feats. Josephson, champion wrestler of Iceland, from Hungary, Olympia, Denmark, brought more than a score of dogs and ponies, whose achievements submerge the mind in a doo of incredulous wonder. Bapognon and Salo's comedy acts prove uproarious fun. The Sisters Merkle, contortionists, shine brightly in the brilliant acrobatic scene. The Three Arleys, perch balancing athletes, come crowned with the highest European honors. All

CITY LABORERS DEFEAT CIVIL SERVICE SCHEME

Majority Against it on Secret Ballot—Officer Whitney Retired on Pension—Resolutions on Death of Jacob Rogers—Other Matters Considered

At a regular meeting of the municipal council held this noon the petition of some of the city employees asking the council to place all city employees on the civil service list was killed after the result of the balloting of the employees themselves had been announced, which showed a majority of 35 votes against the said petition from a total of 633 votes cast.

The council voted to place Patrolman Frank H. Whitney on the pension roll, and decided to give another pensioner, Peter Donohue, an employee of the water department, a hearing next Tuesday. Considerable routine business was transacted and resolutions in reference to the death of Jacob Rogers, a former alderman, were adopted.

The Meeting

The meeting which was scheduled for 11 o'clock was opened an hour later by Mayor Murphy and all commissioners were present. The first matter to be disposed of was a number of petitions from the Lowell Electric Light Corp. and the New England Telephone Co. for pole locations and all were referred.

LEAGUE LEADERS HERE

Patsey Flaherty and His Ocean-siders Hook up With Jimmy Gray's Champs at Spalding Park—200 Braved Weather and Took in Game

Still tingling with resentment at his ejection from yesterday's game and his subsequent wrangle with the Lowell players and further disgruntled by the rather frigid atmosphere which greeted his arrival Manager Patsey Flaherty hosted his Lynn leaders out to Spalding park early this afternoon in no enviable frame of mind as was plainly evidenced by the expression of disgust which beset his usually serene countenance.

In all probability the director of Lynn baseball activities was thinking of his past experiences in this city. It was Jimmy Gray who got all the blame of starting the Shoemakers on their toboggan slide after they had very nearly set up a new record for consecutive wins in the New England League. "Bringing us to Lowell on another Arctic day," grunted Flaherty as he unbuttoned his cold-stiffened leather tights and climbed off the street car at the ball park.

However, Patsey and his squad of leathers, severs and heelers warmed up in spite of the frigid atmosphere in a snap fashion with Artie Latham spouting forth a stream of alleged comedy. That Latham boy is some seducer when it comes to muking ball players think things that are not.

"Shorty" Patee judging from rumors was the lad who was home the shot which wounded Flaherty's pride yesterday and which started him toward the Lowell bench with full purpose in his mind. And Shorty wasn't taking any chances today. He peeped out of the Lowell dugout and took a slant at the Lynn manager to ascertain the latter's probable tactics before taking a broad and trotting on to the field. Even at that it was very noticeable that "Shorty" stuck close to Rubie DeGroot's shadow throughout the preliminaries. Not that Sherry was afraid of Patsey or anything like that but what's the sense in taking any chances?

"Texas" Lohman was out in togs although not fully recovered from his attack of "shingles". The big Texan has not lost any of his ready wit and good humor in spite of his ailment and was the life of the local team's infeld practice before hostilities began.

Bob Kelley's work around the dust rack in the warming-up practice was noticeably more pepperly than it had been of late. His brace of safeties yesterday and especially the wallet which an inquisitive youngster allowed to hop through the left field

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

Saturday next will be your last chance to see the wonderful painting, valued at $60,000, of "The Village Blacksmith," painted by H. De Mareau in a blacksmith shop in Lyons, France, in 1893. The impression that it creates is so vividly realistic as to recall the words in Longfellow's eternal Psalm of Labor.

The smith, a mighty man was he With large and sinewy hands And the muscles of his hairy arms Are strong as iron bands.

GRADUATION DAY AT ROGER HALL SCHOOL

THE ROGER HALL SCHOOL

Brilliant Array of Young Ladies at the Exercises—Address by Prof. Tupper of Vermont—Presentation of Class Gift to the School Accepted by Rev. Appleton Grannis

Never in the long and eventful history of the exclusive Rogers Hall school did it look more inviting or fairer than this morning when hundreds of men and women, young and old, gathered to be present at the commencement exercises that marked the graduation of the class of 1914.

Howard Fahey, the Lynn Item to go into an ancestry of delight, whatever that is. We know a whole lot of Lowell people who don't drink Harvard, but we don't consider the fact of sufficient importance to publish their names.

Speaking of Fahey, the Item says:

"Howard Fahey was born over in Medford where General Lawrence amassed great wealth by manufacturing rum. Howard was taught when young that there was money in making rum, but not in drinking it, therefore he is a total abstainer and left the Medfordites' vocation of making rum to secure an education.

He stood very well in his studies at the Medford High school, and also a little higher in the baseball world, in fact, he was regarded by sport writers as one of the best third basemen that ever played baseball at a high school team in this section of the country.

Leaving Medford he went to Dartmouth, where he was hailed with great glee as a possible solution for the perfect covering of the hot corner.

He played such a remarkable game that Connie Mack seemed his signature to a contract, to take effect the moment he matriculated.

At the close of his last school year he went to Philadelphia and for one year sat on the bench beside the H. I. Ingraham McGillicuddy and learned the finer points of the game. At that time Home Run J. Franklin Baker was going like a whirlwind, therefore Connie, the great, shipped him to Oakland, Cal. While over there he was mixed up in a deal in which the Oakland club was going to trade him, together with two players named Maggert and Crabb for a first baseman named Daley.

The result of that deal was such that the national commission eventually declared Fahey a free agent, and he started for the east as fast as a transcontinental train would bring him.

He visited Philadelphia and Connie Mack told him not to sign anywhere until the following spring, which was this one.

He took Connie's advice, and, at the proper time, he appeared at Ocean Park and affixed himself to a contract with Manager Flaherty. The fans are pleased with the manner in which the young man is taking care of the sack.

He makes errors and he also makes runs and bunts and he has stolen more than his share of bases, therefore he is a valuable asset and also a perfect gentleman. That is characteristic of the Lynn team.

And with all the fine routing, Howard didn't connect with the spheror or even a Texas legger in the last two games, though well give him another chance today.

Scout Last in Lynn

The fact that Red Ames, the Cincinnati pitcher, witnessed yesterday's Lowell-Lynn game from the Lynn bench caused the Lynn players to swell up as Red was supposed to be doing a little scut duty. The Lynn Item dope it out that he was looking over Porter and Robinson but more likely if he was looking for anyone on the Lynn team he was after Artie Latham. Ames undoubtedly got wind of the fact that Arthur had been giving the Lowell team the once over and hence blew down to Lynn to see what Arthur had in mind when he came to this city, or probably he went down to see Joe Clark and took in the game to kill time.

Stimpson, DeGroot and Greenhalge are safely over the 300 mark as batmen while Weaver of Lowell has the distinction, if such it is, of being the first with Walkins of Portland for 1st base among the leaden batters, though he has only played seven games and Walkins in six. Minnie Strauds of Worcester leads all to have played 20 games or over with 38, Stimpson tying the beam at 34; Greenhalge, 33 and the Babe, 30. All the others are under 28, but there's time enough yet for them to show.

"Hard luck!" said the seriole to Manager Gray before the game, referring to the weather.

"Rotten," was Jimmie's emphatic reply. "If it would only rain we could call it off. But then they're settling this weather all over the circuit and we're no worse off than the others."

Ge, but it was cold at the grounds and yet some 200 fans, all immune from pneumonia, went out and seemed to have a good time. Lohman and Waugh were announced at the battery and the fans questioned the wisdom of putting in a pitcher from Texas and a catcher from California on such a cold day but Lohman isn't afraid of the cold since he had himself thoroughly shingled as a protection against the weather. Waugh believes that playing in cold weather is better for the nerves of mind than sitting on the bench with nothing more exciting to do than to get after the umpire.

Lynn sent in Bates, the southpaw, to the twirling while Umpire Doherty succeeded Black as the decision-maker for which the gallant 200 were duly grateful. Rubie DeGroot was there with his show card on today.

The fact that the Lawrence-Haverhill game was postponed on account of the cold didn't cut any figure with

ELECTRIC RAILWAY TRUST PLANNED FOR BAY STATE

Provisions of Plan for Merger of Boston Elevated, Bay State St. Ry., West End St. Ry. and Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Road Into Corporation Made Public

BOSTON, June 9.—Provisions of a plan for a merger of the Boston Elevated railway, the Bay State Street railway, and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road into a corporation to be known as the Commonwealth Electric Railroad company, were made public today. It was announced that a bill embodying this proposition would be submitted to the legislative committee on railroads and metropolitan affairs today by James F. Jackson, former railroad commissioner, acting as counsel for the Bay State Street railway. A similar plan recently was advocated by President Patrick F. Sullivan of the Bay State at a hearing before a legislative committee as a solution for traffic problems in the metropolitan district.

Under the provisions of the bill the new corporation would be authorized to increase fares to an extent necessary to properly provide for maintenance and depreciation and a reasonable return on the capital actually invested.

Its rates would be subjected to the approval of the public service commission. This would remove the present restriction which enforces a five cent fare on the Boston Elevated system. The bill further stipulates that the purchase of the stock of the companies involved shall not be valid unless authorized by a vote of two-thirds of the interest of the stockholders; that the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road may widen its tracks to standard gauge, electrify its system and connect with the Elevated system through extension of tracks or use of a tunnel; that the corporation shall pay annually as an excise tax a sum equal to seven-eighths of one per cent. of the gross earnings of all the lines owned or operated by it and that in case the corporation shall pay more than six per cent. dividends upon its capital stock and premiums it shall pay to the state treasurer for distribution among the cities and towns served by it a sum equal to the amount of such excess.

The metropolitan district is defined in the bill as a territory within a radius of approximately ten miles from the state house.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Though the hard-to-paper fame may have been past, though he will be wise who grows before, To smile at last; He'll never meet A joy so sweet. In all life's little fame, As when first he sang to woman's ear His soul-felt name, And at every close she blushed to hear The one loved name, Now home may bloom. And days may come, Of milder, calmer balm, but there's nothing half so sweet in life. As love's young dream.

quarter of a century ago Captain was as busy in Lowell as he is today, and time it appears from the columns of the old Sun was the tawdry month of June, though the love story of the rich, leaving early in the morning and giving up to boozing and carding, while in other lands the bride and groom of quarter of a century ago still presided over the home, their happiness having increased with the increasing years. A philosopher once said: "Men can live, but can never renew, what they have lost; nor is the perfume of the flowers, faded and withered, of the summer that is gone." But who would not indulge in these faint joys and hence I propose to repeat some of the marriage notices of quarter of a century ago, confident that the mentioned will come in the sentiment so beautifully expressed by James Whitcomb Riley:

"Tis a fragrant recompence, for the loving thoughts that start Into life, when soft perfume from the blossoms of the heart, And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine.

When my infant fancy wanders with that old sweethearts of mine."

With the above familiar names as the headings, the old Sun says:

"Mr. Charles W. Holmes, of the firm of Mark Holmes, Jr. & Son, woodturners, and Miss Catherine C. Martin were married Wednesday afternoon (June 16) by Rev. Richard S. Burke of St. Patrick's. Mr. Peter A. Kelly was best man and Miss Mary A. Coulson of Lawrence was maid-of-honor. The ceremony was private, none but the immediate relatives or the contractors present being present. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes will occupy a new residence at the Rock street early in July. The bride was employed in the Sun office two or three years ago.

MCQUARIE—MAHER

In its matrimonial column the old Sun also has the following:

"Rev. Father Burke, Wednesday afternoon (June 16), united in marriage Mr. Paul McQuarrie and Miss Minnie Maher, the ceremony being performed at St. Patrick's parochial residence. Mr. John W. Fox was best man and Miss Maggie Laverie, bridesmaid. A reception and wedding supper were held at the residence of Rev. Father Thomas J. Groom, 1 Mt. Washington street. Fope and Numismatic Co., Mr. and Mrs. McQuarrie left Lowell on a late train and will make an extensive tour."

GIESON—BURNAP

Likewise the following:

"At the Congregational church in Jersey City, Wednesday evening (June 16), James Edward Gibson, teller of the Merchants' National bank of this city was married to Miss Myra Burnap of Jersey City. Fred N. Wig, Eng and C. W. Whidden of this city were among the ushers at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson will reside on Myrtle street within a few weeks."

Sudden Death of a War Veteran

Looking over the ordinary column of the old Sun I find the following: "John H. Saunders, a veteran of the war, stopped dead on the floor of the J. C. Penney establishment on Thursday morning. His cause of death is unknown. He was 46 years of age and leaves a family at 23 West street. He was a member of post 154 and served in the sixth regiment."

Mr. Saunders and the incident of his death will be readily recalled by the members of the Army and Navy at the home of 28 Marlboro street, after this date."

JOHNSON—JOHNSTON

Of course you've heard of the celebrated "Roundy Twins," boxers and ball players. Well, the Sun's boys who tell us how it happened that the "Roundies" are with us today, say:

"At St. Peter's rectory, Monday evening (June 16) Mr. John F. Roane, member of the famous Quartet of a ex-president of the Burke Temperance Institute and at present a gray-haired letter carrier, was married to Miss Mollie Danforth, an estimable young lady. Mr. and Mrs. Roane left the city on a wedding tour to many points.

This young couple start in life with bright prospects and the best wishes of a host of friends."

Mrs. Roane, who will be recalled as a young woman of beautiful personalty, passed away while her six children were yet of tender years. John F. is still in the service of Uncle Sam and is singing a good tenor solo today, as he used to do in the early days of his studies. Of the six children one daughter bears the mother's name and to this day is the object of the mother's charm of manner, the others being boys, and of the last, a picture of an occasional error in easy fly, the "Roundies" are all right.

BAILEY—MOREY

The Sun of 25 years ago has the following:

Miss Carrie F. Morey, a sister of Mr. Charles F. Morey, principal of the Highland Grammar school, was invited to the marriage of Rev. Dr. C. W. Huntington, the well-known Merrimack River organist, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. William Morey, 26 Sixth street, Wednesday afternoon to Rev. Henry T. Ross officiated at the ceremony, assisted by Rev. C. W. Huntington. The bride wore at her throat a magnificent pearl of delicate workmanship, the gift of the groom. This will result at the Merrimack house, where they have sumptuous apartments for their reception."

Mr. Bailey retired from business a few years ago, being succeeded by Mr. Richard Tolson and he and his wife of quarter of a century ago now have a beautiful home at Room 818, Chestnut. In those days the Merrimack house was noted for the large number of prominent people who made it their home, when the late Captain Partridge was the proprietor and resided there with his family.

MICHAN—MAYO

Says the old Sun:

"Mr. Philip Michan, son of a wealthy brewer of Montreal, and Miss Anna Mayo of Pawtucketville were united in marriage after solemn high mass at St. Patrick's church, Monday morning (June 16) by Rev. D. J. Gleeson. The bride met her husband during a visit to Montreal some months ago, and it was a case of love at first sight.

Miss Louise Mayo was bridegroom and Mr. William Mayo, best man. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's father, in Second avenue, Pawtucketville. After a brief wedding tour the happy couple will reside in Montreal and the bride will leave behind hundreds of sincere friends who wish her every happiness."

MCQUARIE—MAHER

In its matrimonial column the old Sun also has the following:

HENRY L. WATSON SALVATION ARMY

Manager of Tobin Printery Weds Miss Sullivan of Jamaica Plain

Henry L. Watson, the manager of Tobin's printery, was united in marriage today to Miss Mary Frances Sullivan, a popular and accomplished young lady of Jamaica Plain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sullivan of that town.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at the church of Our Lady of Lourdes at 9:30 a.m. by the bride's brother, Rev. Charles J. Sullivan, D. C. L., secretary to Cardinal O'Connell.

Rev. Fr. Sullivan was assisted in performing the ceremony by Rev. George A. Lyons, the pastor and Rev. John E. Sexton, D. D. of St. John's seminary, Brighton. Only immediate families of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, which was simple but impressive. The bride was becomingly attired in ivory opera satin trimmed with lace, and wore a veil arranged in a cap effect caught up with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Bridget Agnes Sullivan, who wore pale pink charmeuse, draped with French net, a lace hat and carried Kilarney roses. The best man was Mr. Peter Watson, brother of the groom. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The young couple left for an extended trip to Washington and Norfolk, Va., and upon their return will be at home to friends at 1921 Lakeview avenue, Lowell.

American Delegates to World's Conference Parade in London

LONDON, June 9.—The American delegates to the world's conference of the Salvation Army, 900 strong, with Miss Eva Booth, chief of the Army in the United States, at their head and accompanied by three bands, marched this morning from the army headquarters in the city of London to the American embassy in Victoria street, where they were reviewed by Ambassador Walter Illes Page.

The delegation made a splendid appearance with their neat uniforms and big red cowboy hats. They received a great ovation as they passed through the crowded streets waving American flags. As the column came in sight of the American embassy, the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner."

Ambassador Page afterward received Miss Booth and the leading officers of the delegation, to whom he expressed his appreciation of the appearance of the delegates and of the work of the Salvation Army.

Miss Booth thanked the ambassador on behalf of her comrades.

The American delegates will attend the opening of the congress tomorrow.

UNIFICATION OF TIME

SENATE RATIFIES CONVENTION PROVIDING FOR ORGANIZATION OF INTERNATIONAL TIME ASSO.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The action of the senate in ratifying the convention providing for the organization of an international time association created considerable interest in scientific circles here today. Belief was expressed that this step would give impetus to the movement to secure unification of time throughout the world. Twenty-four other countries have subscribed to the convention and are expected to follow the lead of the United States in ratifying the instrument. Other nations are admissible.

The object of the association is the unification of time by the use of wireless telegraphy or other signals, whether they be of extreme precision or ordinary signals.

THE ELECTRIC STARTER

The story of the man who inspected his new automobile, compared it with catalog specifications and wrote the factory that it had come complete with the exception of the wheelbase. It is almost tied by an incident which came to light at a middle-western garage the other day.

Well along in the afternoon a party of five tourists in an automobile pulled up and decided to store the car for the night. The car was driven inside and backed into stall, the owner and family leaving for the hotel across the street, leaving the conventional order for a wash and polish.

An attendant went promptly to work, whistling merrily as he progressed in his task of excavating the real estate and exposing the lustrous finish. Eventually he worked around to the front end of the car where a peculiar attachment caught his eye.

The attachment was a wooden plug tightly driven into a hole near the base of the radiator. From the plug was suspended a Virginia license number.

"Hey! Look here!" he called to the proprietor who was up at the front of the place. "Blessed if this fellow hasn't sealed up the hole they left for hand-cranking this machine!"

The proprietor gazed and marvelled. He was thoroughly familiar with electric self-starting devices but had never yet seen such an instance of calm confidence on the part of an owner.

When the tourists came the next morning to resume their trip, the owner was questioned about the plug. "What do you do when you have to crank this car by hand?" asked the garage man.

"Crank it by hand? Why this car has a self-starter!" explained the uncomprehending tourist. "When I want to spin the motor, I push down on this plugger!"

"Sure, but don't you ever have to help it? Isn't there a hand crank with the car?"

A gleam of new truth came to the motorist.

"Well, now that you speak of it, I guess that must be the hand crank that I found in my tool kit," he said.

A gleam of new truth came to the motorist.

"Well, now that you speak of it, I guess that must be the hand crank that I found in my tool kit," he said.

When the tourists came the next morning to resume their trip, the owner was questioned about the plug. "What do you do when you have to crank this car by hand?" asked the garage man.

"Crank it by hand? Why this car has a self-starter!" explained the uncomprehending tourist. "When I want to spin the motor, I push down on this plugger!"

"Sure, but don't you ever have to help it? Isn't there a hand crank with the car?"

TOWN OF TEWKSBURY

Prepares to Sue the Street Railway Company for Two $5000 Bonds—Town Meeting Held

The citizens of Tewksbury were out in large numbers at the special town meeting which was held last night at the town hall in the centre and they all showed considerable interest in the matters that were brought before the assembly. The meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the report of the committee appointed at the last regular meeting to look into the possibility of installing a water system in the town for fire protection and domestic use, and the residents took occasion to insert a few other items of interest in the warrant.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by the town clerk, and the election of a moderator took place, Melvin Rogers, Esq., being chosen to occupy the chair.

Under article two, to hear the report of the committee on water supply for the town and to see if the town will vote to take further action, it was voted according to the report of the said committee to let the matter rest for some time. The committee which was composed of Frank Hallock, M. A. Fahey, George W. Trull, Enoch W. Foster and Joel W. Spalding, reported against the proposition for the present and the report was accepted.

Article three was to see if the town would vote to appoint a committee to have the town hall repaired and improved and also to appropriate a sum necessary to pay for same. This article was the cause of considerable discussion and finally it was voted to appropriate the sum of $100 for repairs and a special committee was appointed to look into the possibility of erecting a new town hall.

The article had been inserted into the warrant by Selectman Harry L. Shedd who said that since there was

COURTING DANGER

It is a well known fact that sports in which there is an element of danger have a peculiar fascination for the minds of the young. The season is on us when this truth will be proved only too well for from now on news of rivers, ponds and beaches will not be complete without the accounts of drownings and other deaths due to the daring of those who ignore danger. Day after day hundreds in this state alone go out in frail canoes and un dependable boats, and despite warnings of press and public the death toll piles up alarmingly. Our own city has had some sad fatalities already and the papers of yesterday related similar occurrences in Boston, Providence, New Haven and other places.

Another example of this love of being and young men for dangerous sports comes from Lynn, where on Saturday a little lad playing the game of "Follow the Leader" climbed a telegraph pole and came in contact with a live wire with dire results. Pole climbing and tree climbing is common in all cities, and the wonder is that the fatalities are not far more numerous. Then again in a short walk one will see children who walk on bridge parapets, those who swim in the dangerous canals and the legion of those who play in the public streets to the despair of automobileists. No list would be complete without the little fellows who steal a ride on the electric cars, on autos and on all other vehicles. Children must have their sports apparently even though this sport endangers their life. Generally the ardent adventurer who runs risks survives to boast of hisfeat to his companions but quite frequently there is a failure followed by a grief-shaded home and a long rest in the cemetery.

How may children be permitted to play and yet play safely? Evidently all danger cannot be eliminated, and perhaps it would not be well to curb the adventurous spirit that is linked with some of the best qualities of the developing mind. Yet it is out of the question that young people should be permitted to throw their lives away without an effort being made to save them from their folly and inexperience. There is a distinct responsibility upon the municipality to provide all sections with playgrounds where youth may revel as will under the proper supervision, and no playground system is complete without facilities for summer bathing. No one can hope to prevent death from foolishness entirely, but a great deal can be done and will eventually be done when the public becomes aware of the awful list of tragedies due to municipal negligence annually.

A special word of warning should be spoken to young men who go to summer camps and vacation resorts for at such times the spirit of bravado leads many a promising career to its finish. Words are vain to paint the dangers for the strongest argument of all is the resultant mineral and yet benignant who should be warned by such an event will continue in their dangerous practices. There are scores of ways to get real enjoyment and pleasure out of life in the summer season without running a risk of losing one's life, and parents, guardians and friends of daring young men and boys should strive to impress on them at the beginning of the season the absolute folly of the indifference or bravado that would lead them into personal danger.

ABUSE OF PENSIONS

One of the most frequent warnings issued at the present time by all sincere and disinterested students of public affairs is that which has to do with the growing abuse of pensions, and judging by the number of requests made by individuals and groups of public officials no warning is more needed. From the smallest community to the state legislatures brazen attempts are being made repeatedly to support or partly support some undeserving individual on the public treasury. It seems sufficient argument for many that the tax-payers as a body will stand the expense, for the public conscience is anything but sensitive with regard to nibbles on state or municipal funds. Frequently a petition for a pension is based on some just claim but the great majority of them are preposterous demands for unmerited and unmerited allowances.

It is meet that public officials who have been injured and partially or wholly disabled in the discharge of their duty should receive a pension; it is furthermore meet that the widow of public officials and dependent children so disabled should receive some degree of public support. Perhaps an occasional pension on behalf of very old employees is desirable—to the public. The official or employee, however, who has lived a long life at good pay should not expect to be kept for the remainder of his days if he decides that work is tiresome and that he would much rather wind up his life in peace and rest. The poor mill operative or other hard-working individual who toils as long as he is able could hardly see the justice of the flagrant discrimination in favor of the public servant.

This brings us to a view of the Pennsylvania and Nebraska have such a law and Indiana has had it for ten years or more. Only in Massachusetts, however, does it extend for such a long period of time and cover so many industries. A contemporary draws attention to the laws of Europe which are far more stringent in this respect, and deprecates the attempt now being made in New York to set the state regulation at nought there. The law is a just, humane and necessary one and it is to be hoped that the courts will not decide against it. Even should it be declared unconstitutional, however, it will be re-enacted in some other form, for no humanitarian state could long tolerate the working of women at night in laborious occupations.

SUN SOUVENIR EDITION

The Sun Souvenir edition has travelled far and wide, but judging by the many warm tributes received from all quarters, its fame has travelled farther. Most of the press notices have already been printed but aside from these there were many letters and messages of congratulation of a more or less personal or private nature, and these have not been published. The following letter, however, deserves special notice, not only because of its recognition of The Sun's excellence and admiration for its policy but for the sidelight it throws on the Irish home rule situation. The writer is the well known Professor John A. Nichols of Boston, occasionally lecturer on historical history, social reforms, etc. Mr. Nichols is at present in London, beginning a lecture tour in leading European cities.

Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.
Dear Sir: Congratulations on the Souvenir edition of May 6th. Here, far away from the old Bay State, I have read it with pleasure. I desire to record my appreciation of the high standard of the "Sun" in regard to liquor advertising. It is worthy of the highest praise. Good for the "Sun"—long may it shine with undiminished light! Years ago, on a visit to this city, I was here when Wm. E. Gladstone introduced the home rule bill, and I was glad to be here again last Monday night, when it passed its third reading. The lords cannot now prevent it from becoming law. Thus the world moves—and democracy triumphs.

Yours most cordially,
John A. Nichols.

KINDNESS IS THE WORD
(By John Boyle O'Reilly)

"What is the real good?" I asked in musing mood.

Order said the law court;
Knowledge said the school;
Truth said the wise head;
Pleasure, said the fool;

Love, said the maiden;
Beauty, said the page;

Freedom, said the dreamer;

Honour, said the sage;

Fame, said the soldier;

Economy, said the seer.

Spake my heart full sadly:

"The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom,

Soothly thus I heard:

Each heart holds the secret,

Kindness is the word."

JACOB ROGERS DEAD AT AGE OF 84 YEARS

Was One of Lowell's Foremost Citizens — Has Been Identified With Her Business and Industrial Life for Many Years—Sketch of His Career

Jacob Rogers is dead, and the city of Lowell has sustained a great loss, for on the roll of her prominent and well-beloved citizens the name of Jacob Rogers led all the rest.

In the fullness of a comfortable old age that is the reward of a well spent youth, Mr. Rogers passed away at his home, 255 Andover street, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 10 days, after an illness borne with fortitude and resignation. Up to within a short time, Mr. Rogers was still a familiar figure down town for Time laid his hand gently upon him and though having exceeded the prescribed three score and ten by over a decade, he was still able to visit periodically the scenes of his former business activities where his presence was welcomed with reverential respect.

Jacob Rogers was descended from an old and honorable family his ancestors having played a prominent part in the early history of our country. The head of the family in the country settled here as far back as 1670, taking a leading part in colonial affairs. One of his ancestors, John Rogers was president of Harvard college from 1682 to 1684 while another Nathaniel Rogers, grandfather of the deceased was a lawyer and a Judge living between 1715 and 1729.

Mr. Rogers was descended on his mother's side from Rev. Jacob Cram, a Congregational minister, and his maternal grandmother, Mary Poor was the daughter of General Enoch Poor of Revolutionary fame. Col. John Rogers, father of the deceased was born in Newmarket, N. H., July 2, 1757 and died in Exeter, July, 1837, leaving a widow and six children. Col. Rogers was one of the leading citizens of Exeter, and a graduate of Phillips Academy, and for 22 years was cashier of the Old Exeter bank. He served also as colonel of the Fourth Militia regiment and took a leading part in town affairs, serving 14 years continuously as a selectman. Col. Rogers was married three times his first two wives being daughters of Col. Nathaniel Gilman of Exeter, and the third wife, Martha Poor Cram, daughter of Rev. Jacob Cram. Jacob Rogers was a son by this last marriage.

Jacob Rogers was born in Exeter, July 23, 1822 and received his education in the schools of that town and at Phillips Exeter Academy. Upon leaving his studies he went to sea and spent three years before he made his first long voyages to India and China in the historic old Boston clippers, in days when ocean travel had not attained its present state of perfection, and his strenuous experience as a sailor prepared him physically for the long and busy career that was to follow.

voted member and strong supporter of the Kirk Street Congregational church and a man of liberality of view on matters of religion.

In 1861 he married Mary Howard Carney, daughter of James G. Carney, former treasurer of the Lowell Institute, who with three children, survived him. The children are Clara Carney, now Mrs. Frank Johnson Dunbar; Alice Poor, now Miss Frederick Arthur Fletcher; and Hon. Jacob Rogers, the present congressman from the 5th Massachusetts district.

The old saying "this word was his bane" applied to Jacob Rogers in all that the expression implies. He was the soul of business honor, open and above board. In all his dealings, while his private life was exemplary, a loving husband and devoted father. From the mightiest magnate in the animal world to the humitest servant in his employ, he was genuinely admired, respected and loved, and as he fares forth from the scenes in which he labored so long, so faithfully and so well, the prayerful well-wishes of an entire community accompany him.

TEST RED FLAG LAW

CASE OF ALLEGED VIOLATION OF RECENT STATUTE IN FITCHBURG WILL GO TO SUPREME COURT

WORCESTER, June 9.—A brief and final trial of John H. Karvonen of Fitchburg, charged with carrying a forbidden flag, was held in the superior criminal court yesterday. Dist. Attorney Sillies read to the jury an agreed statement of facts drawn by himself and Atty. T. J. McCarthy of Worcester, counsel for the defendant. It was stated that the case is to go to supreme court to test the constitutionality of the statute of Nov. 5, 1913, that forbids the carrying of a red or a blue flag in any procession in the state under certain conditions.

The statement of facts was to the effect that the flag in question has been the emblem of a Finnish Socialist organization in Fitchburg for some years.

Judge Dubique charged the jury that, in response to requests for rulings made by the defense, he would instruct them that they have a right and that the flag in question is a red flag within the meaning of the statute. The jury found the defendant guilty and Judge Dubique imposed a fine of $20, but suspended it on the defendant's motion, to enable the parties to go to the supreme court.

Schriever of Crystal avenue, by Lieut. of Police Thomas Jeffers at 7 last night. Miss Schriever, now 15 years of age, was a sophomore in Will-Hume Memorial Institute at the time of her disappearance.

Her father was employed as an engineer on the Panama canal at the time and it was rumored that the daughter, after having had a quarrel with her mother, had gone to Panama to reside with her father. Mr. Schriever returned from Panama six months ago and claimed he knew nothing of the whereabouts of his daughter.

JUDGE SHERMAN DEAD

Famous Justice Presided Over Many Important Cases During 24 Years of Service on Bench

WINDSOR, Vt., June 9.—Judge William Edgar Sherman, who retired from the Massachusetts superior court bench in 1911, died at his summer home here at 1 o'clock this morning.

For the past 24 hours he had been unconscious. His death was momentarily expected. At his bedside was his son, Roland Sherman, an attorney of Boston.

WAS BORN ON A FARM

Judge for 36 Years Lawyer—Prosecuted Famous Murder Cases

BOSTON, June 9.—When Judge Edgar J. Sherman retired from the superior court bench on a pension in 1911 he was one of the most famous justices in the country. During his 24 years of service he presided over many of the most important and difficult cases ever tried in this Commonwealth.

One of these was the trial of Charles L. Tucker, found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page of Weston and electrocuted at the Charlestown state prison later. Another great trial was the Trefethen murder case.

Judge Sherman was born in Westerfield, Windsor county, Vermont, Nov. 25, 1834, on a farm that had been owned successively by his great grandfather, grandfather and father. He attended school at the Wesleyan Seminary at Springfield, Vt., for several months, going to the district school in the winter and returning to the seminary for the spring term and laboring on the farm during the summer. This continued for several years.

Taught on Cape Cod

Later he taught school in Vermont. In the spring of 1853 his father sold his farm and moved to Lawrence, Mass., and the boy who was afterwards to become Bay State Jurist, decided he would try to teach school in Massachusetts.

After visiting his parents at Lawrence, he went to Boston which he had never visited before, and then journeyed to Sandwich, Mass., and Harwich trying to find a school. After some trouble he found a school at Bassettville on Cape Cod, and began to teach, having many amusing and interesting experiences, which he relates in his book.

After making good as a school teacher, Mr. Sherman lived for a while with his parents at Lawrence. He was born within 30 miles of Dartmouth college, and always was ambitious to become a student there. The expense was thought too great, however, by his parents, and greatly to his disappointment he was obliged to give up the idea. In 1854, however, when he was attorney general of Massachusetts the trustees of Dartmouth college, learning of the circumstances, conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of arts.

In 1855 young Sherman entered the law office of George W. Benson in Lawrence, and in March, 1858, he was admitted to the Essex bar. He began the practice of law and so continued until the Civil war began in 1861, when he enlisted as a private soldier in the 4th regiment. Later he was elected captain and participated in many battles, being brevetted major and colonel of his regiment.

Mr. Sherman was elected a representative to the legislature in the fall of 1861 and in the following January took his seat. He was re-elected in 1865, and while at the state house served on many important committees.

He was also elected district attorney of Essex county in 1866, and tried a number of famous cases, in which he was very successful.

Prosecuted Goodwin

During the fall of 1862, Mr. Sherman was elected attorney-general of Massachusetts, and was renominated and elected to the same office for the four succeeding years. While in office Mr. Sherman was called upon to conduct some very big cases and was almost uniformly successful. One of these was the case of Henry K. Goodwin, that the village had been referred to by them as "John D. Rockefeller's town." This assertion, President Pieron declared to be unfounded, as Mr. Rockefeller owned no property and had no interests in the village.

Then it was explained that the streets of Tarrytown belong to the abutting property and are subject to strict control by the trustees who cannot grant permits for meetings in them. From suggestions made by several of the trustees it appeared that Tarrytown had decided to establish a free speech forum in some lot, permission for the use of which may be obtained from the owner. The visitors were sent away with a notice that the trustees would give further consideration of the question on Wednesday night.

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Summer

These days the face needs special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, the heating sun, are severe on any skin. Their desirability is best overcome by the application of pure paraffin wax. This keeps skin and pores in a cleanly condition, spotless. Lotion, freckled and roughened cuticle are acted upon by it. One ounce of paraffin wax, obtainable at any drugstore, is sufficient to completely renovate a soiled complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and washed off in the morning.

As the skin tends to stand in warm weather, causing wrinkles to form, a good astringent lotion should be used. Dissolve 1 oz. powdered salicite in 1/2 cupful hazel. Bathe the face in this during the heat of the day or before going to the theatre or social affair. It is a remarkable skin tightener and wrinkle eraser.

Oil made from these crudes may look even thinner than other oils—at ordinary temperatures. But heat the oil and see what happens. The heavy oil becomes thin and watery. Polarine scarcely notices the heat. And it is in a high temperature that every auto lubricant has to work.

Polarine base oils have the natural viscosity at high temperatures that no manufacturing process can give a cheap motor oil.

Polarine, finished and ready for sale, costs us much more than other oils. But its use means permanent satisfaction to our customers. And permanent satisfaction has meant success for Polarine—the Standard oil for all motors.

the judge was the trial of John C. Best, indicted for the murder of George E. Bailey, in 1901. The trial was at Salem and Judge Fox was on the case with Judge Sherman. This case was exceedingly interesting because it was one of the most conclusively proven cases of circumstantial evidence ever tried in Massachusetts.

Refused Tucker New Trial

The next important murder trial was that of Charles L. Tucker, whose conviction caused the greatest stir since the days of the famous Bram trial. A motion for a new trial was filed in superior court and heard by Justice Sherman alone, as Justice Sheldon, who sat on the first trial with him had in the meantime been appointed a justice of the supreme court. After a full hearing the motion for a new trial was overruled. Tucker was found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page, a Weston girl.

"ROCKEFELLER'S TOWN"

TARRYTOWN, N. Y. TRUSTEES SAY ASSERTION IS UNFOUNDED—AD-VOCATES OF FREE SPEECH

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 9.—Advocates of free speech who have resented their grievances against Tarrytown because of the refusal of the board of trustees to grant permits for public street gatherings, last night for the first time were forced to listen to the grievances Tarrytown holds against them. At an open meeting the trustees and village president R. Pieron listened to free speech advocates and then forced the speakers to listen to the trustees' side of the wrangle, residents of the village forming a non-participating audience.

President Pieron told Upton Sinclair, Leonard Abbott, Theodore Schroeder, Frank Lowe and George Hillman who appeared as petitioners for permits to hold street meetings that Tarrytown's chief grievance was that the village had been referred to by them as "John D. Rockefeller's town."

This assertion, President Pieron declared to be unfounded, as Mr. Rockefeller owned no property and had no interests in the village.

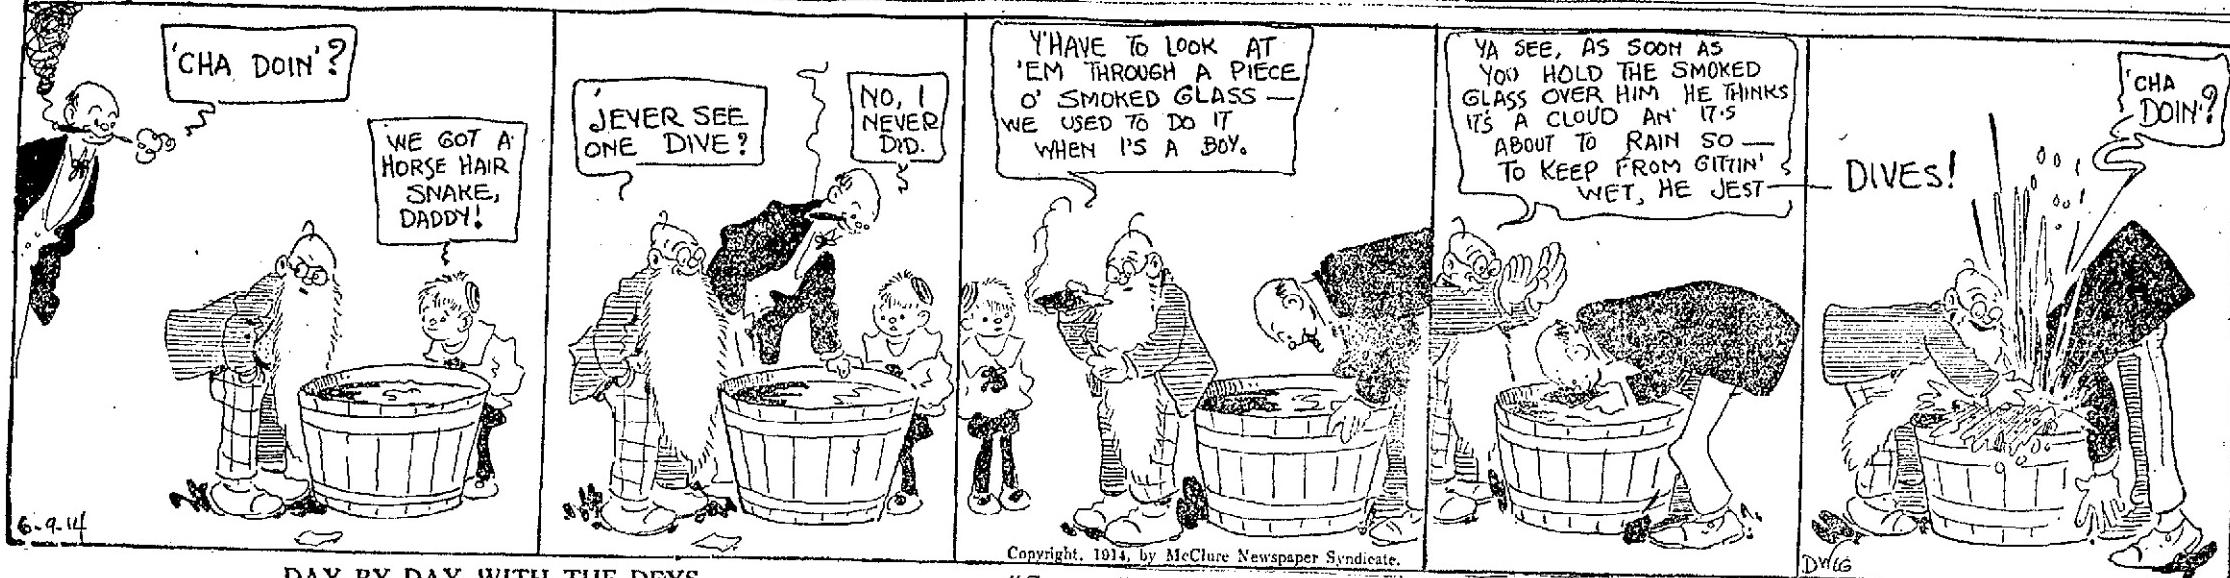

Then it was explained that the streets of Tarrytown belong to the abutting property and are subject to strict control by the trustees who cannot grant permits for meetings in them.

From suggestions made by several of the trustees it appeared that Tarrytown had decided to establish a free speech forum in some lot, permission for the use of which may be obtained from the owner. The visitors were sent away with a notice that the trustees would give further consideration of the question on Wednesday night.

SALE OF FIREWORKS THE PANAMA TOLLS BILL

CHIEF SAUNDERS WILL FURNISH COPIES OF LAW REGULATING SALE OF FIREWORKS

As storekeepers will soon begin to display fireworks and other explosives in preparation for the Fourth of July celebration Chief Saunders has secured a number of copies of chapter 565 of the acts of 1910 which governs the keeping, storage, transportation, manufacture, sale and use of fireworks and firecrackers in the state of Massachusetts. Last year several local merchants failed to live up to the conditions of the law and when approached by the proper authorities stated that they were not aware of its enforcement. A part of the act reads as follows:

"Section 8. No person shall store, sell or keep for sale fireworks or fire-crackers without a written or written from the chief of the district police or some official designated by him and except in accordance with these regulations. Applications for such a permit shall be made on blanks prepared for that purpose and furnished by the official to whom the application is made.

A full copy of the act may be secured by applying to Chief Saunders.

LET THIS MILITARY DIE!

LONDON, June 9.—"Let them die" is becoming a rather popular slogan in connection with the "Hunger striking" suffragettes since the public has become so profoundly resentful of the actions of the militant women.

It was reported yesterday that the government had decided to take a step in that direction by introducing legislation to indemnify prison authorities against the consequences of allowing suffragettes to starve themselves to death while in prison.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY TRUST
PLANNED FOR BAY STATE

BOSTON, June 9.—Provisions of a plan for a merger of the Boston Elevated railway, the Bay State Street railway, the West End Street railway, and the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road into a corporation to be known as the Commonwealth Electric Railroad company, were made public today. It was announced that a bill embodying this proposition would be submitted to the legislative committees on railroads and metropolitan affairs today by James F. Jackson, former railroad commissioner, acting as counsel for the Bay State Street railway. A similar plan recently was advocated by President Patrick F. Sullivan of the Bay State at a hearing before a legislative committee as a solution for traffic problems in the metropolitan district.

Under the provisions of the bill, the new corporation would be authorized to increase fares to an extent necessary to properly provide for maintenance and depreciation and a reasonable return on the capital actually invested.

Its rates would be subjected to the approval of the public service commission. This would remove the present restriction which enforces a five cent fare on the Boston Elevated system.

The bill further stipulates that the purchase of the stock of the companies involved shall not be valid unless authorized by a vote of two-thirds interest of the stockholders; that the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn road may widen its tracks to standard gauge, electrify its system and connect with the Elevated system through extension of tracks or use of a tunnel; that the corporation shall pay annually as an excise tax a sum equal to seven-eighths of one per cent of the gross earnings of all the lines owned or operated by it and that in case the corporation shall pay more than six per cent dividends upon its capital stock and premiums it shall pay to the state treasurer for distribution among the cities and towns served by it a sum equal to the amount of such excess.

The metropolitan district is defined in the bill as a territory within a radius of approximately ten miles from the state house.

To provide for the establishment of a financial unit and an operating unit within this district and to adjust the revenue to a scientific basis are stated to be the chief purpose of the plan.

The Boston Elevated operates all the surface, underground and elevated lines within the city of Boston and a large part of the surface lines in the suburbs. The West End is under lease to the Elevated. The Bay State lines extend from Newport, R. I., through Lowell and other places to Nashua, N. H., and the company's cars enter Boston from the north and the south through a traffic agreement for joint use of the lines of the Elevated. The Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn is a narrow-gauge steam railroad operating in East Boston, Winthrop, Revere and Lynn and maintaining a line of ferry boats from East Boston to the city proper.

All Companies Represented

All the companies concerned, except the Boston Elevated Railway Co., were represented when Mr. Jackson presented the plan before the joint committee. He announced, however, that the elevated company had instructed its attorney to co-operate with him in the details of the proposed merger. The plan as outlined by Mr. Jackson provided for the consolidation of the roads within three towns and authorized the inclusion of all other street railways within ten miles of the state house. The plan also provided that the Newton circuit branch of the Boston & Albany railroad, while not to be annexed, should be electrified.

"Somebody has seen a can of cream at Revere Beach and after it, I suppose," said Melvin O. Adams, president of the Boston, Revere and Lynn railroad, in opposing the merger. He declared the railroad was unsuccessful, solvent and enterprise and should therefore be allowed to continue in that happy condition. The only concession he was willing to make was a traffic agreement with the merged companies.

A Young World Beater

The fact that Howard Fahey, the new Lynn infelder comes from Medford but doesn't drink rum has caused the Lynn team to go into an ecstasy of delight, whatever that is. We know a whole lot of Lowell people who don't drink Harvard, but we don't consider the fact of sufficient importance to publish their names.

Speaking of Fahey, the item says: "Howard Fahey was born over in Medford where General Lawrence amassed great wealth by manufacturing rum. Howard was taught when young that there was money in making rum but not in drinking it, therefore he is a total abstainer and left the Medfordites' vocation of making rum to secure an education."

He stood very well in his studies at the Medford High school, and also a little higher in the baseball world. In fact, he was regarded by sport writers as one of the best third basemen that ever played baseball on a high school team in this section of the country.

Leaving Medford he went to Dartmouth, where he was hailed with great glee as a possible solution for the perfect covering of the right corner. He played such a remarkable game that Connie Mack secured his signature to a contract, to take effect the moment he matriculated.

At the close of his last school year he went to Philadelphia and for one year sat on the bench beside the illustrious McGillicuddy and learned the finer points of the game. At that time Home Run J. Franklin Baker was going like a whirlwind, therefore Connie the great, shipped him to Oakland, Cal. While over there he was mixed up in a deal in which the Oakland club was going to trade him, together with two players named Maggert and Crabb for a first baseman named Daley.

The result of that deal was such that the national commission eventually declared Fahey a free agent, and he started for the east as fast as after trying hard to break the ball into the smothering finale sent up a high foul fly to Wacob and Wacob got it, and the inning was over. One run,

Saturday next will be your last chance to see the wonderful painting, valued at $60,000, of "The Village Blacksmith," painted by H. De Mareau in a blacksmith shop in Lyons, France, in 1893. The impression that it creates is so vividly realistic as to recall the words in Longfellow's eternal Psalm of Labor—

"How mighty man was he,

And the muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands."

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Though the hard to pure fame may soar,
When wild youth's past;
Though he win the wise, who drown'd before,
To smile at last;
He always meet
Joy so sweet.
In all his noon of fame,
As when first he sung to woman's ear
His soul-felt name;
And at every close she blush'd to hear
The one loved name!
Now hope may bloom,
And joys may come;
Of hidden paths known,
But there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream!

Quarter of a century ago Cupid was as busy in Lowell as he is today. And June, it appears from the columns of the old Sun, was the favorite month of the year. Then was the favorite month of brides, even as now. Times and manners may change, but the love-story of today is as old as the traditional hills. In looking over The Sun of 25 years ago I find accounts of the weddings of many well known men and women. Since those glorious days in some cases, happy families have been broken by the inevitable intruder, who comes with untimely step the cottage of the poor and the palace of the rich, leaving earth one apiece less and giving to heaven one angel more, while in others the bride and groom of quarter of a century ago still abide over the home, their happiness having increased with the increasing years. A philosopher once said: "Memory can please, but can never renew. It brings us joys, faint as is the perfume of the flowers, faded and dried of the summer that is gone." But who would not indulge in those faint joys, and hence I propose to reprint some of the marriage notices of quarter of a century ago, confident that those mentioned will concur in the sentiment so beautifully expressed by James Whitcomb Riley:

"Tis a fragrant retrospective, for the loving thoughts that start
Into being like periwinkles from the blossoms of the heart;
And to dream the old dreams over is a luxury divine.
When my trusty fancy wanders with that old sweetheart of mine."

With the above familiar names as the heading, the old Sun says:

"Mr. Charles W. Holmes, of the firm of Merk, Holmes, Jr., & Son, woodturners, and Miss Catherine C. Martin were married Wednesday afternoon (June 15), by Rev. Richard S. Burke of St. Patrick's. Mr. Peter A. Kelly was best man and Miss Mary A. Coulson and Mr. William Mayo, best man. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's father, in Second avenue, Pawtucketville. After a brief wedding tour the happy couple will reside in Montreal and the bride will leave behind hundreds of sincere friends who wish her every happiness."

McQUARRIE—MAHER

In its matrimonial column the old Sun also has the following:

Rev. Father Burke, Wednesday afternoon (June 15), united in marriage Mr. Daniel McQuarrie and Miss Minnie E. Maher, the ceremony being performed at St. Patrick's parochial residence. Mr. John W. Fox was best man and Miss Maxine Leavay, bridegroom. A reception and wedding supper were held at the residence of Mr. Carter Thomas J. Groom, 4, Mt. Washington street, Pawt. and Natick, after which the happy couple left Lowell on a late train and will make an extensive tour.

GIBSON—BURNAP

Likewise the following:

At the Congregational church in Jersey City, Wednesday evening (June 4), James Edward Gibson, teller of the Merchants' National bank of this city, was married to Miss Myra Burnap of Jersey City. Fred N. Wier, Esq., and W. Whidden of this city were among the witnesses. Several Merchants' Bank employees and several other relatives were present during the reception. Paul & Nona furnished an elaborate decoration. Following the ceremony the happy couple will be at home at 24 Belmont street, after July 1st.

Sudden Death of a War Veteran

Looking over the obituary column of the old Sun I find the following: John F. Summers, a veteran of the war, dropped dead on the floor of the J. C. Ayer establishment on Thursday morning. Heart disease caused his death.

Mr. Summers was employed at the Ayer establishment and had not complained of illness. He was 65 years of age and leaves family at 23 West street.

He was a member of post 355 and served in the Sixth regiment.

Mr. Summers and the incident of his death will be readily recalled by the members of the famous Quarter of a century.

Of course you've heard of the celebrated "Roundie Twins," vocalists and ball players. Well, The Sun of 25 years ago tells us how it happened that the "Roundies" are with us today in the flesh.

"At St. Peter's rectory, Monday evening (June 3) Mr. John F. Roane, member of the famous Quarter of a

HENRY L. WATSON SALVATION ARMY

Manager of Tobin Printery Weds Miss Sullivan of Jamaica Plain

Henry L. Watson, the manager of Tobin's printery, was united in marriage today to Miss Mary Frances Sullivan, a popular and accomplished young lady of Jamaica Plain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sullivan of that town.

The ceremony was performed at a nuptial mass celebrated at the church of Our Lady of Lourdes at 9:30 a.m. by the bride's brother, Rev. Charles J. Sullivan, D. C. L., secretary to Cardinal O'Connell. Rev. Fr. Sullivan was assisted in performing the ceremony by Rev. George A. Lyons, the pastor and Rev. John E. Sexton, D. D. of St. John's seminary, Brighton. Only immediate families of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony, which was simple but impressive. The bride was becomingly attired in ivory opera satin trimmed with lace, and wore a veil arranged in a cap effect caught up with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Bridget Agnes Sullivan, who wore pale pink charmeuse, draped with French net, a lace hat and carried Killarney roses. The best man was Mr. Peter Watson, brother of the groom. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride. The young couple left for an extended trip to Washington and Norfolk, Va., and upon their return will be home to friends at 1921 Lakeview Avenue, Lowell.

American Delegates to World's Conference Parade in London

LONDON, June 9.—The American delegates to the world's conference of the Salvation Army, 300 strong, with Miss Eva Booth, chief of the Army in the United States, at their head and accompanied by three bands, marched this morning from the army headquarters in the city of London to the American embassy in Victoria street, where they were reviewed by Ambassador Walter Illes Page.

The delegation made a splendid appearance with their neat uniforms and big red cowboy hats. They received a great ovation as they passed through the crowded streets waving American flags. As the column came in sight of the American embassy, the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner."

Ambassador Page afterward received Miss Booth and the leading officers of the delegation, to whom he expressed his appreciation of the appearance of the delegates and of the work of the Salvation Army.

Miss Booth thanked the ambassador on behalf of her comrades.

The American delegates will attend the opening of the congress tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The action of the senate in ratifying the convention providing for the organization of an international time association created considerable interest in scientific circles here today. Belief was expressed that this step would give impetus to the movement to secure unification of time throughout the world.

Twenty-four other countries have subscribed to the convention and are expected to follow the lead of the United States in ratifying the instrument. Other nations are admissible.

The object of the association is the unification of time by the use of wireless telegraphy or other signals, whether they be of extreme precision or ordinary signals.

MOTOR TRUCK IN DEMAND

Veritable Life-saver for Business Man—What the Local Dealers Are Doing

To paraphrase an old saying, "No truck is stronger than the weakest feature of the service back of it." Without the best of service to back it, the highest-priced truck in the world will not prove a profitable investment.

With good service, the honestly built and correctly designed motor truck is a veritable life-saver for the business man who has transportation to handle.

By service, I do not mean, as many owners of both pleasure cars and trucks seem to believe, unlimited attention and repairs free of charge. I mean an equipment and staff complete enough and large enough to handle promptly every demand for service that may be made. When distributors all over the country have sufficient machinery and capable workmen to take care of the trucks they sell, that is one of the main reasons why the truck owner will come back for the same kind of a truck when his business warrants expansion.

When trucks leave the factory and when they are delivered to the customer, they should be in perfect condition, ready to start in the hardest kind of work. If they are overloaded or overspeeded and never inspected or adjusted, there is sure to be trouble, and that is why distributors should maintain perfect service departments in their plants. In other words, their responsibility doesn't cease when the truck is sold—it only begins.

"Crank it by hand?" he called to the proprietor who was up at the front of the place. "Blessed if this fellow hasn't seated up the hole they left for hand-cranking this machine!"

The proprietor gazed and marveled.

He was thoroughly familiar with electric self-starting devices but had never yet seen such an instance of calm confidence on the part of an owner.

When the tourists came the next morning to resume their trip, the owner was questioned about the plug.

"What do you do when you have to crank this car by hand?" asked the garage man.

"Crank it by hand? Why this car has a self-starter," explained the uncomprehending tourist. "When I want to spin the motor, I push down on this plunger!"

"Sure, but don't you ever have to help it? Isn't there a hand crank comes with the car?"

A gleam of new truth came to the motorist.

"Well, now that you speak of it, I guess that must be the hand crank that I found in my tool kit," he answered. "I don't know whether I've got it with me yet or not. But I do know that I've never used it, either on this trip or before it, and I've come more than a thousand miles over the mountains. I'll bet I've started that motor 3000 times, easy. That hole looked like a handy place to use for the license, so I've always used it that way."

So saying the gentleman climbed in, pressed down on the plunger, started the motor and rolled out on his way. "Well, I yum," remarked the garage man.

L. J. Bradley, of the Middlesex Motors Inc., in his little talk in his advertisement of today states briefly the chief characteristic necessary to make up a good motor truck. His ten or more years of experience and knowledge along this line enables him to assert that they are found in greatest measure in the Atterbury truck, and Mr. Bradley says that its conformity with the standards he has mentioned is one of the reasons why Atterbury truck is greatly used by fire departments, etc., where quickness and reliability are given greatest consideration.

D. A. Mackenzie of the Mackenzie Motor Sales Co., 836 Middlesex street recently sold a two-ton Selden truck to the Standard Bottling Co. The truck is decorated with the emblem of the Standard Bottling Co. This artistic piece of work was done at the Mackenzie garage.

Mr. White of the Reo garage is making quite a hit with the new model J two-ton truck which he has for demonstrations. Many possible buyers have expressed much favorable comment on this machine.

The Donovan Harness Co. states in today's ad that anyone who is contemplating anything in the line of automobile upholstery may find it to their advantage to call upon them before making any purchases. There they will receive the benefit of the experience of men long in the upholstery business in form of valuable suggestions at no expense at all.

Besides many bicycles Mr. Bachelder has sold a 2 speed Indian motorcycle with side car to Eugene Ricard; a 7 h. p. Indian motorcycle to Walter E. Smith, and a Majestic side car to Ernest Farron of Tynessboro.

Arthur H. Green, whose repair shop is at 148 Church street, has developed a plan which he calls his yearly service system. Mr. Green asserts that this plan is the result of study on the part problem of automobiles. He confidently states that he has hit upon a plan that will reduce the high cost of repairing which is a big thing to automobile owners. Mr. Green would be pleased to unfold this plan to any automobile owners who are interested enough to call around to see him.

stable government to succeed Huerta rule.

MEDIATORS TO MAKE PUBLIC REPORTS FROM REBELS

WASHINGTON, June 9.—With danger of a clash between the United States and Huerta averted at Tampico, interest in the Mexican situation was turned abruptly to the mediation conference today after the receipt of reports that the South American envoys personally were inclined to consider at an end their efforts to bring Carranza into the proceedings unless he agreed to an armistice. The mediators stated they would make public all the correspondence that has passed between them and the constitutionists.

Constitutionalist agents here expected to hear from Carranza today and belief was expressed that the events of the next 48 hours would determine the scope of mediation.

Meanwhile the federal and rebel missions continued their meetings. Both sides had presented to the mediators a plan for Mexico's pacification. It was said to be practically the same in principle, contemplating establishment of a new provisional government which would provide for an early general election for permanent administration.

Speculation continued as to whether the steamer Antilla, which cleared from New York carrying arms for Carranza would deliver them. Official statements of the disposition of the case were not forthcoming. An official of the Ward line, which owns the Antilla, was quoted as saying that the steamer was due to arrive at Tampico Wednesday "unless the United States government sends orders to her captain not to go into that port."

Before the Antilla nears Tampico it is believed the administration's attitude will be revealed in a reply to the note of the federal delegates. They inquired whether the American government would object to action by Huerta's gunboats to balk the landing of the ammunition. The note was addressed to the mediators and reached the state department here from the American mission. The Huerta delegates were said to be disposed to continue mediation proceedings even if the ammunition got ashore.

TOWN OF TEWKSBURY

Prepares to Sue the Street Railway Company for Two $5000 Bonds—Town Meeting Held

The citizens of Tewksbury were out in large numbers at the special town meeting which was held last night at the town hall in the centre and they all showed considerable interest in the matters that were brought before the assembly. The meeting was called for the purpose of hearing the report of the committee appointed at the last regular meeting to look into the possibility of installing a water system in the town for fire protection and domestic uses, and the selectmen took occasion to insert a few other items of interest in the warrant.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 o'clock by the town clerk and the election of a moderator took place, Melvin Rogers, Esq., being chosen to occupy the chair.

Under article two, to hear the report of the committee on water supply for the town and to see if the town will vote to take further action, it was voted according to the report of the said committee to let the matter rest for some time. The committee which was composed of Frank Haines, M. A. Parton, George W. Trull, Enoch W. Foster and Joel W. Spalding, reported against the proposition for the present and the report was accepted.

Article three was to see if the town would vote to appoint a committee to have the town hall repaired and improved and also to appropriate a sum necessary to pay for same. This article was the cause of considerable discussion and finally it was voted to expend the sum of $100 for repairs and a special committee was appointed to look into the possibility of erecting a new town hall.

The article had been inserted into the warrant by Selectman Harry L. Shedd who said that since there was not his personal preference. He said last fall the door was condemned and the sum of $100 was spent to put it in shape. The roof leaked, the state inspectors have ordered the doors

changed and the settees altered, and the Tewksbury board of health has condemned the sanitaries. The room is heated by an old fashioned stove and the selectmen said he thought it would be well to install a steam-heating system. He said he believed the necessary alterations would cost about $700, and accordingly George W. Trull offered a motion that that sum be appropriated, but he urged the erection of a new building. After considerable discussion the motion was killed and it was voted to spend the sum of $100 for necessary repairs and the following committee was appointed to look into the possibility of erecting a new building: Dr. H. M. Larabee, Frank Carter, John L. Fleming and Harry L. Shedd.

Article four was to see if the town would appoint a committee to investigate and report on the necessity for either an addition to the Foster school or a new school building. This matter was discussed at length and finally the matter was referred to a special committee composed of the following: Wilbur Parton of the school board, Selectman Jeremiah K. Chandler and Charles H. Kittridge, they to report at the next annual town

Fire Protection

Article five was to hear a report of the selectmen on fire protection, and Mr. Shedd made a report of progress, stating that new fire apparatus had been ordered and that in the near future a volunteer department will be organized.

To Sue Street Railway Company

It was thought that the matter concerning the controversy between the town and the Bay State Street Railway company would be taken up although there was no mention in the warrant, but not one word was said and accordingly the selectmen will use their own judgment in an effort to recover on two bonds of $5000 each which were filed by the company a few years ago in relation to a franchise for the extension of the Andover street car line to North Tewksbury.

MATRIMONIAL

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Brewster's Millions," the third big Lasky photo production to be presented in this city, entertained a large audience at B. F. Keith's theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. The cast used for the production of the pictures is the original company which first dramatized the story written by George Barr McCutcheon and which is probably the greatest comedy drama attempt of Monty Brewster.

The story amuses along pleasantly and not too strenuously, for a time, until the peculiar will of a relative of "Montgomery Brewster" is read. Then things happen. We see "Monty" in his mad endeavor to live up to the terms of the will, getting on the aerodrom in a prize fight and winning, buying out a worthless stuck and seeing it rise, thereby making much money; putting an automobile on a railroad track and finally hoisting the bag on the conductor's neck. The will may lose $500,000 in value and be classed as salvage. After his heavy winnings at Monte Carlo, the loss of the half million on the yacht left "Monty" practically broke, and in this condition he presented himself to the authorities, who, in turn, who promptly turned over to him six million for which he had racked his brains.

Through the five reels there runs a very pretty love story, a love story of a most unusual kind, for according to the pesky will which "Brewster" follows he could not become love-en-tangled during the course of spending the money. It was mighty hard for him and he nearly lost forever the girl of his heart. But like all good plays should, it ended with a wedding.

In addition to this big feature there is a Lubin picture, "The Signal," which is dramatic and the Hear-Sell News Pictorial, showing scenes in this country and Mexico. Samuel Wallace, a tenor singer, gives a brace of songs during the waits between reels.

"Brewster's Millions," with the surrounding features, will be given twice daily and colored and it will be followed by a splendid production of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." The price of admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15 cents. Children, five cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE

The Merrimack Square Theatre players are this week seen in "The Lottery Man," a four-act comedy from the pen of Cyril Scott, and if the remaining performances make as favorable an impression as last evening's did there is no doubt but the production will be one of the most successful ever presented by this popular company.

The story of the play is very interesting and also has a number of humorous parts that will please the patrons of the theatre. A New York city young man, who is trying to win the love of a handsome young lady, finally decides that the only way to get her heart and hand is to run a lottery. For a time things go along smoothly and the young man thinks that he will surely land his prize when complications arise and threaten to destroy his future happiness. However, when everything appears to be going his way there is a sudden change and after a number of amusing and exciting incidents the curtain is lowered with everyone satisfied.

The play is very well handled by the members of the cast and applause was one of the most common things at last evening's performance. Miss Scott Weeks, as Jack Wright, the young man who resorts to a lottery in his endeavor to win the young lady, is very pleasing and proves that he is capable of handling the comedy parts as well as he does in the straight dramatic choices. As Valerie Meyer, the young girl who resorts to a lottery to be advanced in life, she promises to be a good addition to this city for another engagement drew a good hand.

Miss Meyer's work is of a high standard and she promises to win many more Lowell friends. Miss Irene Jones, as Elizabeth Roberts, companion to Mrs. Peyton, interests her lines very well and elicits much merriment from the audience while Miss May B. Huston, as Mrs. Peyton, who is anxious not to show any signs of advanced age, is also very good. The other members of the company include Miss Josephine Egan, Miss Geneva Williams, the small girls, Stevens and Stewart Wilson, exceptionally good. "The Lottery Man" will be presented afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week and it surely deserves liberal patronage.

The Kasino

I don't know what the Brazilian Maxixe is. Do you? Are you going to know tonight though, and Mr. and Miss Packard are to be my instructors. At the Kasino from 8 until 8:30 this pair of dancers will demonstrate the modern dances, including the maxixe, the tango, the habanera and a few others, while a more or less concert has been arranged. I am informed that such dances are strictly danced as they were originally depicted. The Kasino management knows that there is no objection to them as the tuckards dance them and the enjoyment of the tuckards is primarily educational. With a well populated room to dance as do the Paraguayan will come a cessation of tango criticism. The exhibition is free to all.

THE OWL THEATRE

Of all the stirring detective stories ever shown on a screen, "Fantomah" stands in a class of its own. It is gripping in interest and dramatic moments abound in every new film. It is being shown again today at the Owl, with other equally interesting films. "The Striker" is a highly interesting two-reel production will please any one interested in American working conditions. "The Disaster of the Edmund Fitzgerald" is another good subject being flashed on the screen. Every one is acquainted with the facts of this great maritime tragedy, and in this film, everything of interest has been outlined for viewing. Other good pictures are to be shown. Jack Dalton will sing and the sliding roof will always keep you cool and comfortable.

FOREST NOTES

Four buffalo calves have just been born on the Wichita national forest, bringing the herd up to 51.

In co-operation with the weather bureau, forest rangers are to measure snow depths in the western mountains.

Students of the Oregon Agricultural college are working at the forest nursery on the Siuslaw forest. The arrangement is said to be mutually satisfactory since the students gain experience in forest nursery practice and their assistance lowers the cost of nursery work.

Manufacturers have found that red alder from the Pacific coast is a suitable material for clothespins. Alder makes a white, smooth, springy pin. As a result of this fact, a clothespin factory, said to be the first on the Pacific coast, may be established at Portland, Ore.

The city of Tacoma, Washington, has entered into a cooperative agreement with the forest service for the protection of the source of its water supply, the watershed of the Green river, which lies within the Rainier national forest. The two agencies working together will protect this stream from the results of forest destruction by fire or by other agencies.

BIG EVENT FOR POULTRYMEN— CANNING CLUBS PROMISE GREAT RESULTS

Poultrymen throughout New England will be interested to know that the annual poultrymen's convention of the Massachusetts Agricultural college is to be held at Amherst, July 22, 23, and 24. All indications point to an attendance this year of well above 1500. One of the special features this year will be a series of large charts, drawings, photographs and descriptive matter representing the correct equipment and proper management of a small Massachusetts poultry farm in all its details. The grounds, the house, the number of hens per acre and per man and the details of care and management will be graphically and completely illustrated. In addition there will be a large and instructive educational and commercial exhibit as possible. The program consists of three solid days of lectures and demonstrations by the best authorities in the country. Representations of poultry departments from all of the New England Agricultural colleges and a number of other states will be present. Professor J. C. Gladwin is hard at work making final arrangements for the program. This program in full will be issued about the middle of June and can be secured from the director of the Extension Service, M. A. C., Amherst, Mass.

Canning Clubs Promise Great Things

A phase of agricultural club work which only last fall was first introduced in Massachusetts promises this year to become one of the foremost activities. This is the canning clubs for preserving fruits and vegetables. The boys' and girls' club work which is conducted co-operatively by the Extension Service of the College and the United States department of agriculture will be a great success because of medicinal qualities that are found in fruits and vegetables. One reason that so much meat is purchased is because of the ease of preparation. Canned fruits and vegetables in quantities would present a substitute. It is a fact that the tonnage contained in a 15 cent can can be grown and canned at home for personal use. Clubs of boys and girls who will grow and can fruit and vegetables for the home and the market either in tin or glass are being formed. A girl can make from two to five dollars a day canning these things. Each club will have a government label on which is stamped the number of the club and the number of the girl doing the work so that a defective can easily be traced to its source. A large number of requests are being received by the college from canners and fair associations for canning demonstrations. The phase of the work promises to be a very important economic factor.

COURTING DANGER

It is a well known fact that sports in which there is an element of danger have a peculiar fascination for the minds of the young. The season is on us when this truth will be proved only too well for from now on news of rivers, ponds and beaches will not be complete without the accounts of drownings and other deaths due to the daring of those who ignore danger. Day after day hundreds in this state alone are out in frail canoes and un dependable boats, and despite warnings of press and public the death toll rises up alarmingly. Our own city has had some sad fatalities already and the papers of yesterday related similar occurrences in Boston, Providence, New York and other places.

Another example of this love of boys and young men for dangerous sports comes from Lynn, where on Saturday a little lad playing the game of "Follow the Leader" climbed a telegraph pole and came in contact with a live wire with dire results. Pole climbing and tree climbing is common in all cities, and the wonder is that the fatalities are not far more numerous. Then again in a short walk one will see children who walk on bridge parapets, those who swim in the dangerous canals and the lesson of these who play in the public streets to the despair of automobilists. No list would be complete without the Baltic fellows who steal a ride on the electric cars, on autos and on all other vehicles. Children must have their sports apparently even though this sport endangers their life. Generally the ardent adventurer who runs risks survives to boast of his fear to his companions but quite frequently there is a failure followed by a grief-shaded home and a long rest in the cemetery.

How may children be permitted to play and yet play safely? Evidently all danger cannot be eliminated, and perhaps it would not be well to curl the adventurous spirit that is linked with some of the best qualities of the developing mind. Yet it is out of the question that young people should be permitted to throw their lives away without an effort being made to save them from their folly and inexperience. There is a distinct responsibility upon the municipality to provide all sections with playgrounds where youth may revel at will under the proper supervision, and no playground system is complete without facilities for summer boating. No one can hope to prevent death from foolhardiness entirely, but a great deal can be done and will eventually be done when the public becomes aware of the awful list of tragedies due to municipal negligence annually.

A special word of warning should be spoken to young men who go to summer camps and vacation resorts for at such times the spirit of bravado leads many a promising career to its finish. Words are vain to paint the dangers, for the strongest argument of all is the resultant funeral, and yet hundreds who should be warned by such an event will continue in their dangerous practices. There are scores of ways to get real enjoyment and pleasure out of life in the summer season without running a risk of losing one's life, and parents, guardians and friends of daring young men and boys should strive to impress on them at the beginning of the season the absolute folly of the indifference or bravado that would lead them into personal danger.

ABUSE OF PENSIONS

One of the most frequent warnings issued at the present time by all sincere and disinterested students of public affairs is that which has to do with the growing abuse of pensions, and judging by the number of requests made by individuals and groups of public officials no warning is more needed. From the smallest community to the state legislature brazen attempts are being made repeatedly to support or partly support some undeserving individual on the public treasury. It seems sufficient argument for many that the tax-payers as a present time being of especial interest will stand the expense for the public conscience in anything but sensible with regard to roads on state or municipal funds. Frequently a pension is based on a person's age, between the hours of 65 and 70, but the great majority of pensions are granted to those who are past the working age of 65. This law was originally passed in 1907, limiting work from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., but the court of appeals declared against it. It is further met that the widows of public officials and dependent children so disabled should receive some degree of public support. Perhaps an occasional pension on behalf of old employees is desirable to the public. The official or employee, however, who has lived a long life at good pay should not expect to be kept for the remainder of his days if he decides that work is irksome and that he would much rather wind up his life in peace and rest. The poor mill operative or other hard-working individual who toils as long as he is able could hardly see the justice of the current discrimination in favor of the public servant.

This brings us to a view of the Pennsylvania and Nebraska have such a law and Indiana has had it for ten years or more. Only in Massachusetts, however, does it extend for such a long period of time and cover so many industries. A contemporary draws attention to the laws of Europe which are far more stringent in this respect, and deprecates the attempt now being made in New York to set the state regulation at nought there. The law is a just, humane and necessary one, and it is to be hoped that the courts will not decide against it. Even should it be declared unconstitutional, however, it will be re-enacted in some other form, for no humanitarian state could long tolerate the working of women at night in laborious occupations.

men who want to see life is, that they imagine there is none of it worth seeing by daylight.

SUN SOUVENIR EDITION

The Sun Souvenir edition has travelled far and wide, but judging by the many warm tributes received from all quarters, its fame has travelled farther. Most of the press notices have already been printed but aside from these there were many letters and messages of congratulation of a more or less personal or private nature, and these have not been published. The following letter, however, deserves special notice, not only because of its recognition of The Sun's excellence and admiration for its policy but for the sidelight it throws on the Irish home rule situation. The writer is the well known Professor John A. Nichols of Boston, occasionally of Lowell where his father resided, lecturer on biographical history, social reforms, etc. Mr. Nichols is at present in London, being on a lecture tour in leading European cities.

Editor "Sun,"

Lowell, Mass., U. S. A.
Dear Sir: Congratulations on the Souvenir edition of May 8th. Here, far away from the old Bay State, I have read it with pleasure. I desire to record my appreciation of the high standard of the "Sun" in regard to humor advertising. It is worthy of the highest praise. Good for the "Sun" long may it stand with undiminished light! Years ago, on a visit to this city, I met here the Hon. W. E. Gladstone introduced the home rule bill, and I was glad to see him again, last Monday night, when it passed its third reading. The lords cannot now prevent it from becoming law. Thus the world moves—and democracy triumphs.

Yours most cordially,
John A. Nichols.

KINDNESS IS THE WORD

(By John Boyle O'Reilly)
"What is the real good?" I asked in musing mood.

Order, said the law court;
Knowledge, said the school;
Truth, said the wise man;
Pleasure, said the fool;

Love, said the maiden;

Beauty, said the page;

Fridom, said the dreamer;

Honor, said the sage;

Fame, said the soldier;

Equity, said the seer.

Speake my heart full sadly;
"The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom,
Softly said I heard;
Each heart holds the secret,
Kindness is the word."

Most youngsters of this age learn so rapidly that it is almost impossible for the average high school to keep up with them.

Pity the poor young man who parts his hair in the middle—he has to do it to prevent his mind from becoming unbalanced.

The boy with long flaxen curls looks a great deal prettier to his mother than to the short-haired little boys who play with him.

It is all right to impress a child with the G. W. cherry-tree story, but it is foolish to follow it up with the gift of a hatchet.

JACOB ROGERS DEAD AT AGE OF 84 YEARS

Was One of Lowell's Foremost Citizens — Has Been Identified With Her Business and Industrial Life for Many Years—Sketch of His Career

Jacob Rogers is dead, and the city of Lowell has sustained a great loss, for on the roll of her prominent and well-beloved citizens the name of Jacob Rogers led all the rest.

In the fullness of a comfortable old age that is the reward of a well spent youth, Mr. Rogers passed away at his home, 285 Andover street, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 10 days, after an illness borne with fortitude and resignation. Up to within a short time, Mr. Rogers was still a familiar figure down town for Time laid his hand gently upon him and though having exceeded the prescribed three score and ten by over a decade, he was still able to visit periodically the scenes of his former business activities where his presence was welcomed with reverential respect.

Jacob Rogers was descended from an old and honorable family his ancestors having played a prominent part in the early history of our country. The head of the family in this country settled here as far back as 1670, taking a leading part in colonial affairs. One of his ancestors, John Rogers, was president of Harvard college from 1682 to 1684 while another, Nathaniel Rogers, grandfather of the deceased, was a lawyer and a judge, living between 1745 and 1829.

Mr. Rogers was descended on his mother's side from Rev. Jacob Cram, a Congregational minister, and his maternal grandmother, Mary Poor, was the daughter of General Enoch Poor of Revolutionary fame. Col. John Rogers, father of the deceased, was born in Newmarket, N. H., July 2, 1787 and died in Exeter, July 1887, leaving a widow and six children. Col. Rogers was one of the leading citizens of Exeter, and a graduate of Phillips Academy, and for 22 years was cashier of the Old Exeter bank. He served also as colonel of the Fourth Militia regiment and took a leading part in town affairs, serving 14 years continuously as a selectman. Col. Rogers was married three times; his first two wives being daughters of Col. Nathaniel Gilman of Exeter, and the third wife Martha Poor Cram, daughter of Rev. Jacob Cram. Jacob Rogers was a son by this last marriage.

Jacob Rogers was born in Exeter, July 29, 1829 and received his education in the schools of that town and at Phillips Exeter Academy. Upon leaving his studies he went to sea, and spent three years before the mast making long voyages to India and China in the historic old Boston clipper in days when ocean travel had not attained its present state of perfection, and his strenuous experiences as a sailor prepared him physically for the long and busy career that was to follow.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Use It Like a Cold Cream and Dry Eczema Eruptions Right Up.

The moment you apply bold-sulphur an itching or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a renowned dermatologist.

This remarkable sulphur made into a thick cream effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties and nothing has ever been found to take its place in relieving irritable and inflammatory afflictions of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance, it immediately subdues the itching irritation and heals the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again manifests itself.

Any good pharmacist will supply an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, which should be applied to the affected parts like the ordinary cold creams. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with torturous itching.

TEST RED FLAG LAW

CASE OF ALLEGED VIOLATION OF RECENT STATUTE IN FITCHBURG WILL GO TO SUPREME COURT

WORCESTER, June 9.—A brief and formal trial of John H. Karvonen of Fitchburg, charged with carrying a forbidden flag, was held in the superior criminal court yesterday. Dist. Attorney Stiles read to the jury an agreed statement of facts drawn by himself and Atty. T. J. McCarthy of Brockton, counsel for the defendant. It was stated that the case is to go to supreme court to test the constitutionality of the statute of Nov. 3, 1913, that forbids the carrying of a red or a black flag in any procession in the state under certain conditions.

The statement of facts was to the effect that the flag in question has been the emblem of a Finnish Socialist organization in Fitchburg for some years.

Judge Dubois charged the jury that, in response to requests for instructions made by the defense, he would instruct them that they have a right to find that the flag in question is a red flag within the meaning of the statute. The jury found the defendant guilty and Judge Dubois imposed a fine of $50, but suspended it on the defendant's motion, to enable the latter to go to the supreme court.

MISS ARDELL SCHRIEVER OF NEW LONDON REFUSES TO TELL WHERE SHE HAS BEEN

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 9.—Miss Ardele Schriever, who mysteriously disappeared from her home in this city two years ago last September, was returned to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bethel W. Schriever of Crystal avenue, by Lt. of Police Thomas Jeffers at last night. Miss Schriever, now 18 years of age, was a sophomore in Williams Memorial Institute at the time of her disappearance.

Her father was employed as an engineer on the Panama canal at the time and it was rumored that the daughter, after having had a quarrel with her mother, had gone to Panama to reside with her father. Mr. Schriever returned from Panama six months ago and claimed he knew nothing of the whereabouts of his daughter.

Miss Schriever walked up State street last night at 6:30 and Lt. Jeffers shadowed her to a Cattage street residence.

She admitted her identity and decided to accompany the officer to her home, where she was affectionately received by her parents.

She refused to say where she had been. To the Lieutenant the girl jokingly remarked that "no one would ever know." She was well dressed and in fine health.

JUDGE SHERMAN DEAD

Famous Justice Presided Over Many Important Cases During 24 Years of Service on Bench

WINDSOR, Vt., June 9.—Judge William Edgar Sherman, who retired from the Massachusetts superior court bench in 1911, died at his summer home here at 1 o'clock this morning.

For the past 24 hours he had been unconscious. His death was momentarily expected. At his bedside was his son, Roland Sherman, an attorney of Boston.

JUDGE FOR 36 YEARS A Lawyer—Prosecuted Famous Murder Cases

BOSTON, June 9.—When Judge Edgar J. Sherman retired from the superior court bench on a pension in 1911 he was one of the most famous justices in the country. During his 26 years of service he presided over many of the most important and difficult cases ever tried in this commonwealth.

One of these was the trial of Charles L. Tucker, found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page of Weston and electrocuted at the Charlestown state prison later.

Judge Sherman was elected a representative to the legislature in the fall of 1884 and in the following January took his seat. He was re-elected in 1886, and while at the state house served on many important committees.

He was also elected district attorney of Essex county in 1886, and tried a number of famous cases, in which he was very successful.

Prosecuted Goodwin

During the fall of 1882 Mr. Sherman was elected attorney-general of Massachusetts, and was renominated and elected to the same office for the four succeeding years.

He was called upon to conduct some very big cases, and was almost uniformly successful.

One of these was the case of Henry K. Goodwin.

His opponent was General Benjamin F. Butler, but despite the latter's great ability as a lawyer the jury returned a verdict of murder in the second degree, and Goodwin was sentenced to imprisonment for life.

He was in 1896 granted a conditional pardon, however.

Another important murder case was the trial of Sarah J. Robinson, accused of the murder of her son by poison.

Attorney-General Sherman prepared this case for trial with District Attorney Stevens, but before it came to trial he was appointed to the bench and the case was tried by his successor.

Because Justice in 1887

Mr. Sherman was appointed a justice of the superior court by Governor Oliver Ames in the fall of 1887. One of the most interesting cases which Mr. Sherman was called upon to preside over after becoming judge was the trial of James A. Trefethen, charged with the murder of Delina J. Davis.

This case is notable from the fact that Judge Sherman, in his "recollection" states that every judge who presided over Trefethen's two trials believed him guilty, although he was finally acquitted.

Another important case where he was the judge was the trial of John G. Best, indicted for the murder of George E. Bailey, in 1901. The trial was at Salem and Judge Fox was on the case with Judge Sherman. This case was exceedingly interesting because it was one of the most conclusively proven cases of circumstantial evidence ever tried in Massachusetts.

Refused Tucker New Trial

The next important murder trial was that of Charles L. Tucker, whose conviction caused the greatest stir since the days of the famous Bram trial. A motion for a new trial was filed in superior court and heard by Justice Sherman alone, as Justice Sheldon, who sat on the first trial with him had in the meantime been appointed a justice of the supreme court. After a full hearing the motion for a new trial was overruled. Tucker was found guilty of the murder of Mabel Page, a Weston girl.

"ROCKEFELLER'S TOWN"

TARRYTOWN, N. Y. TRUSTEES SAY ASSERTION IS UNFOUNDED—ADVOCATES OF FREE SPEECH

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 9.—Advocates of free speech who have recited their grievances against Tarrytown because of the refusal of the board of trustees to grant permits for public street gatherings last night, for the first time were forced to listen to the grievances Tarrytown holds against them.

At an open meeting the trustees and village president R. Pierson listened to five free speech advocates and then forced the speakers to listen to the trustees' side of the wrangle, residents of the village forming a non-participating audience.

President Pierson told Upton Sinclair, Leonard Abbott, Theodore Schroeder, Frank Lowe and George Harrington who appeared as petitioners that Tarrytown's chief grievance was that the village had been referred to them by as "John D. Rockefeller's town."

This assertion, President Pierson declared to be unfounded, as Mr. Rockefeller owned no property and had no interests in the village. Then it was explained that the streets of Tarrytown belong to the abutting property and are subject to traffic control by the trustees who cannot grant permits for meetings in them.

From suggestions made by several of the trustees it appeared that Tarrytown had decided to establish a free speech forum in some lot, permission for the use of which may be obtained from the owner. The visitors were sent away with a notice that the trustees would give further consideration of the question on Wednesday night.

To Have Perfect Skin Throughout the Summer

These days the face needs special care and attention. Flying dust and dirt, the weather, sun, severe or any skin, those despoliating effects are best overcome by the application of pure mercurized wax. This keeps skin and pores in a cleanly condition, spotless, uncolored, freckled and roughened cuticles are actually absorbed by it. One ounce of mercurized wax, obtainable at any druggist, is sufficient to completely renovate a sound complexion. It is used like cold cream, allowed to remain on over night, and wiped off in the morning.

As the skin tends to expand in warm weather, causing wrinkles, form a good astrigent lotion should be used. Dissolve 1 oz. powdered salsolite in spirit with hazel. Bathe the face in this before going out for theatre or social affair. It is a remarkable skin tightener and wrinkle eraser.

WHY POLARINE IS MADE FROM PARAFFINE CRUDES

Polarine

Frost Proof

Carbon Proof

Oil made from these crudes may look even thinner than other oils—at ordinary temperatures. But heat the oil and see what happens. The heavy oil becomes thin and watery. Polarine scarcely notices the heat. And it is at high temperature that every auto lubricant has to work.

Paraffine base oils have the natural viscosity at high temperatures that no manufacturing process can give a cheap motor oil.

Polarine, finished and ready for sale, costs us much more to our customers. And permanent satisfaction has meant success for Polarine—the Standard oil for all motors.

WON FROM THE LEADERS

Lowell Team Took Uphill Contest
From Lynn by 9th Inning Rally
Score 7 to 5

LYNN, June 9.—Who was that Solo—a privilege they had. A ball game man of the bleacher planks who once won a ball game won, even if it is remarked, as he plodded wearily home swing from one side to the other by a stone-cold supper after 14 or 15 an absent-minded policeman forgetting in the stress of the moment, that gates in the outfield fences are supposed to be ever, pal off the last, greater is kept shut and not left open to the whims and eccentricities of any long-gone gentelman was. If he could have winged out that way, looking for a spectator of yesterday afternoon some means of egress through the noon's fracas between the Lynn and stockade.

Lowell New England league teams at Umpire Doherty, was forced to bid Ocean Park, he'd have patted himself adieu to his Fighters in the 4th inning and retire beyond the playing area to the dressing rooms. It was a little incident on the bases that inflicted pain to cross with Doherty. Shorty Dee had opened the inning with a single that brought Porter across the plate and broke a tie deadlock. That is won it for a few minutes—then, temporarily, transiently, as it were, M. Smith, messes Burke's ground shudder. When he recovered the ball, he struck the middle Dee, scoring for third and bunted to Doherty. The throw was low, so low, in truth, that it hit the dirt before it got to Doherty, but Doherty might have not it on the 9th were easy meat. That settled it everybody thought. Even the Grays began to untie their shoes preparatory to shifting into their pavement kicks and hissing apparel. People were leaving the stands. Then came a sudden sharp, surprising overturn that put that nice swipe of Murphy's on the bunt and swamped the Fighters' chances as effectually as though the whole Atlantic ocean had come piling in upon them from off Long rock.

Kelly, the Lowell first baseman, walked up and handed the ball a roundhouse shot into left field. It was one hefty wallop, all right, and good for two bases anyway. It went foul four, however. There were no large reasons. In the first place, Robinson, instead of playing for it on the houses, tried to scoop it up by a forward dash. All he rather up was a handful of grass and wild ivy. The ball whistled past him. Then entered the second reason: it was the gate in the left field fence back of the old bull sign. There was an aperture in the gate—not very spacious, to be sure, but sufficiently ample for the exit of one regulation, professional league ball. That's just what happened. The ball hopped right through with Robinson trailing it, continuous reverberation.

CHIEF SAUNDERS WILL FURNISH COPIES OF LAW REGULATING SALE OF FIREWORKS

As storekeepers will soon begin to display fireworks and other explosives in preparation for the Fourth of July celebration, Chief Saunders has secured a number of copies of chapter 565 of the acts of 1910 which governs the keeping, storage, transportation, manufacture, sale and use of fireworks and firecrackers in the state of Massachusetts. Last year several local merchants failed to live up to the conditions of the law and when approached by the proper authorities stated that they were not aware of its enforcement. A part of the act reads as follows:

Section 8. No person shall store, sell or keep for sale fireworks or fire-crackers without a permit in writing from the chief of the district police or some official designated by him, and except in accordance with these regulations. Applications for such a permit shall be made on blanks prepared for that purpose and furnished by the official to whom the application is made.

A full copy of the act may be secured by applying to Chief Saunders.

LET THE MILITARY DIE

LONDON, June 9.—"Let them die" is becoming a rather popular slogan in connection with the "Hunger Striking" suffragettes since the public has become so profoundly resentful of the actions of the militant women.

It was reported yesterday that the government had decided to take a step in this direction by introducing legislation to indemnify prison authorities against the consequences of allowing suffragettes to starve themselves to death while in prison.

ROY SCOUTS TO PARADE

Boy Scouts of Lowell are invited to join in the parade flag day, Sunday, June 14. They will meet at Memorial Park at three p.m., each carrying a flag and will march to the South Common. Scoutmasters are requested to give the names of the boys who wish to parade to the executive scout, room 101, Sun building. The scouts have a busy summer mapped out, and all boys are ready to do their share, as they receive ample compensation in the form of merit badges. 21 of those badges will make a boy an "eagle scout." It is hoped that they all cover.

The boys have organized a musical troupe and a rifle and drum corps which are both meeting with success. An examination will take place Friday at the Y. M. C. A.
